Some of Them Gigantic Prehistoric Animals of Old Pacific Days

By ART SHERBORNE

Years ago—about 150,000 of m—before Old King Winter chased the first tourist to California to be nabbed by the first real estate agent, Southern California was a tropical paradise.

The waters of the Pacific then were warmer, the soil was covered with dense and luxurious vegetation and gigantic prehistoric animals stalked their prey on the sea shore.

All this has been told to scientists by oddly-shaped bits of shell and bone found imbedded in the lime quarry of the Torrence Lime & Fertilizer company in the foothills south of Lomita and half a mile from the Palos Verdes estate.

A collection of fossils from this property is now on display at 104 East Broadway in the window of the First Savings bank.

S. M. Purple, general manager of the company, was here yesterday explaining them to friends in Glendale.

The collection was secured for the local bank through the efforts of Elwood J. Robinson, Jr., of 119 North Central avenue, who is a specialist in window displays and advertising for financial institutions.

Water Once Warmer

One tray in the display consists of eighteen species of shells, some of which have never been found before except on European ...res. Another tray contains a conch shell, which is found along the Florida coast and in the West Indies where the ocean water is much warmer.

"The finding of this shell indicates that the water of the Pacific was once much warmer, too," declared Mr. Purple. "The remarkable thing is that these shells are in perfect condition after all these years."

A tray full of teeth from sharks is nearby. These sharks would have been maneaters—only it is believed that there were no men

J. E. Templeton and Wife Visit Southland

Former residents of Memphis, Tenn., now living in Glendale and Los Angeles, have recently enjoyed most pleasant reunions honoring Mr. and Mrs. J. E. Templeton, prominent Memphis people, who are touring southern California and making their headquarters at the George C. Harris home at 1263 Mariposa street.

As a return compliment to their friends, Mr. and Mrs. Templeton were hosts Thursday night at a seven-course dinner at the Broadway Inn, where they entertained twelve couples.

Pink gladioli were the floral decorations used on the supper tables and artistic placecards marked places for Mr. and Mrs. G. C. Harris, Mr. and Mrs. Dave L. Slavin and Mr. and Mrs. D. E. Skinner, Mr. and Mrs. Andrew Carroll and daughter, Fern, who are visiting in California from Memphis, and a group of Los Angeles people.

Mr. and Mrs. Templeton are planning several long motor trips for the summer months. Mr. Templeton is interested in hunting and fishing and outdoor activities, and he and Mrs. Templeton are looking forward to trips to Yosemite, Lake Tahoe, Big Bear and Mount Wilson.

J. W. Foley Fails To Address Legion

A joint meeting was held last night of the local post of the American Legion and the local chapter of the auxiliary.

J. W. Foley, who was scheduled to make a speech, failed to make his appearance. After a search, he was located in Pasadena by W. H. Reeves about 9:30 o'clock. He declined to come to Glendale at that hour.

Chalmers Day, vice-commander, presided until the arrival of Commander James F. McBryde.

Apple pie and ice-cream was the nourishment of the occasion.

HOSTS TO CHURCH FOLK

Mr. and Mrs. J. E. Colvin of 235 East Lexington Drive entertained the pastors and elders of the First Presbyterian church and their wives informally at their home last night. Rev. Edmonds gave a talk concerning the work of the church and a very pleasant evening was enjoyed.

H. M. BUTTS OFF FISHING

H. M. Butts of the Monarch Auto Supply company, 121 South Brand boulevard, went fishing yesterday. A big barracuda he presented the publisher of The Glendale Evening News proves it. He evidently kept the other fish—an albicore—for himself. We thank you!

Only One Ballot Registered Against Verdugo Gas Mains

Verdugo Woodlands, Municipal Improvement District No. 6, yesterday voted 119 to 1 for the issuance of $50,000 to pay for the installation of gas mains.

The 119 have their suspicions as to who the 120th voter was, but they are glad their victory was so complete as work will be started at once and their homes will be warmed by modern methods this winter.

Only the interest needs be paid on the bond issue as the company repays the principal as service is made on each lot in the district, it is stated.

Oak Street Paving to Be Discussed on Wednesday night

Oak street is to be properly paved if F. A. Clarke of 351 Oak street knows anything about it—he says so himself.

The possibility of having the street paved with three-inch macadam will be discussed Wednesday night at a special meeting at 8 o'clock in his home to which all property owners along this street have been invited.

The city council at its last session indicated its intention to have this street improved and it was understood that the paving would be similar to that on Columbus, Vine and Elk streets.

Dissatisfaction over this form of paving was expressed this morning by Mr. Clarke. He said that he did not know what it was called, but that it seemed to be merely a sprinkling of pulverized rock over an oil base. He said that he did not believe the surface of streets treated in this manner would last a whole year and particularly after the rainy season started and the rain had a chance to wash the gravel from the sides of the street.

"Different members of the council are absolutely dissatisfied with the improvement made on Columbus, Vine and Elk," asserted Mr. Clarke. "They certainly do not want to see any other streets in Glendale paved like that. The three-inch macadam paving will prove much more satisfactory and will last indefinitely. Hawthorne, Harvard and Ivy streets are all seven years old. These streets are in very fine shape. The only places where they seem to be a little bumpy are where the utilities companies have neglected to put the paving down again in as good shape as when they pulled it up."

The macadam paving will last at least ten years, according to an estimate by Mr. Clarke. He calculated that it would cost about $37.50 a lot more than the gravel surface.

"To get better paving, we will have to enter into separate contracts with Peter L. Ferry, the contractor," stated Mr. Clarke. "Mr. Ferry will be in attendance at the meeting and will be glad to answer any questions."

Miss Hazel Gittings Weds Leslie Koeppe

A pretty home wedding took place yesterday morning at 11 o'clock at the home of Mr. and Mrs. F. C. Charles, 349 West Maple avenue, when their niece, Miss Hazel Gittings, and Leslie F. Koeppe of Los Angeles were united in marriage, the Rev. V. Hunter Brink officiating.

The rooms were prettily decorated with garden flowers. The bride wore a lovely gown of white canton crepe and carried a bouquet of lilies of the valley and orchids. Her sister, the bridesmaid, Miss Vera Gittings, wore a gown of orchid color georgette, and carried Cecil Brunner rosebuds. Walter Wilhelm of Los Angeles officiated as best man.

The young couple left immediately after the ceremony on a motor trip to San Diego, where they will spend their honeymoon. They will return to Glendale for a visit and then leave for Visalia, where they will make their future home. Mrs. Koeppe has been a resident of Glendale for five years, making her home with Mr. and Mrs. Charles, her aunt and uncle. Mrs. Koeppe was formerly a resident of Missouri. Mr. Koeppe is from Los Angeles, and associated with the Goodyear Tire and Rubber company, with headquarters in Visalia.

Annual Alumni Dance Welcomes Graduates

The annual alumni dance given to welcome the June graduates of Glendale Union High school was given last night at the Chamber of Commerce auditorium. Music for dancing was furnished by a five-piece orchestra. During the evening refreshments were served.

The officers of the alumni association for the past year have been: Donald Packer, 1914, president; Russell Tummel, 1919, vice president; Ernestine Lyon, 1917, secretary; Frank Balthis, 1919, treasurer. It is planned to have an alumni celebration at the high school during the Christmas vacation, at which time the officers for the ensuing year will be elected.

ALL-DAY SERVICES PLAN OF CHURCH DEDICATION

Impressive Ceremonies Start 10:30 Sunday Morning at Central Christian

The Central Christian church will be dedicated tomorrow at all-day exercises.

Evangelist George L. Snively will preach the dedication sermon in the morning. His subject will be "The Significance of Christianity to America."

Another speaker at this service, which will commence at 10:30 o'clock, will be J. G. Warren of Los Angeles, president of the Southern California Christian Missionary society. He has a reputation of being one of the foremost laymen of this denomination in California.

An interdenominational memorial service will be held in the church during the afternoon. All residents of Glendale are invited by Rev. Clifford A. Cole to attend and pay tribute to the memory of those who have labored to make this a better world and now have gone to their heavenly reward. This service will follow the Eucharist.

Orange King to Talk

Charles C. Chapman, who is known as "The Orange King of Fullerton," will discuss "The Old Ways, the Old Friends."

"Immortality" will be the subject of the evening sermon by Evangelist Snively.

"Sin and Its Cure" will be discussed by Rev. Snively at 9:30 o'clock at a special Sunday school session. Those present will be invited to "take a stand" and join the congregation in its new church home.

An overflow meeting will be held at 10:30 in the auditorium of the intermediate school. All of school age are invited. The program will consist of songs, music, stories and readings.

Pride in the new $100,000 church edifice is felt by all members of the congregation and especially by those who have helped to make possible its erection.

Officers of Church

Church officers are: A. B. Heacock, 709 East Windsor Road, chairman of the board; John H. Orth, 153 South Central avenue, financial secretary; W. B. Kirk, 504 East Broadway, treasurer; H. R. Stevenson, 352 Pioneer Drive, treasurer Mission fund; F. L. Thompson, 433 South Lake street, Los Angeles, chairman building fund; Mrs. Cora Heacock, 709 East Windsor Road, clerk of Sunday school; Floyd Mercer, 319 North Jackson street, superintendent of Sunday school; Mrs. M. G. Musser, 600 West Colorado street, pianist; Mrs. Calvin Whiting, 512 North Kenwood street, choir director.

Miss Nadine Hession, R. Walters Married

Miss Nadine Hession of Big Pine, California, and Rowland Walters of 1136 East Elk avenue, Glendale, were married Friday night, June 30, 1922, at the home of Rev. V. Hunter Brink, pastor of the Central Avenue Methodist church. O. S. Palmer, uncle of the bridegroom, and Mrs. Hession, mother of the bride, were the only attendants. After the ceremony a large wedding cake was presented to the young couple by the bread company where Mr. Walters was formerly employed. He is now with the Standard Oil Company. After a honeymoon spent at the beach cities Mr. and Mrs. Walters will make their home in Glendale.

Three Days' Outing In Mountains Plan

Mr. and Mrs. A. H. Nichols of 110 East Elk avenue are to leave this evening for a three day outing in the mountains. They will be accompanied by Mr. and Mrs. Richard Potter and children, and Mr. and Mrs. Grant Potter and children of Long Beach.

Mr. Nichols has made no definite plans as to his destination, but will probably drive either into the Big or Little Bear country or up some canyon leading from the San Fernando valley. The party will take full camping equipment and will "rough it." They will return on the evening of the Fourth of July.

DISCUSS HOTEL FINANCE

Details in regard to financing the new Glendale Hotel were discussed this morning in Los Angeles at a conference between C. W. Ingledue of 632 East Broadway, president of the Eastside Advancement Association and George A. Whitney of the Ross Campbell company.

LEAVE FOR HOUSE PARTY

Mr. and Mrs. Ralph W. Browne of 215 North Brand boulevard and nephew, Selden R. Palmer, are leaving today to be guests at a house party given by Mr. and Mrs. Robert P. Tuttle of Los Angeles at their cabin at Sulphur Springs.

Glendale's Growth Well Evidenced by Meter Installations

Glendale continues its growth, according to J. F. McIntyre, commercial agent of the public service department. This morning he announced the installation of 119 water meters during the month of June, bringing the total to 6816 and installation of 177 light meters bringing their total to 6856.

The building permits for the month of June were $355,613, making a total of $3,192,067 for the year to date. This June exceeded last June by $61,652.

WANDA AND BEBE, SCREEN QUEENS, FORFEIT BAIL

Eagle Rock Enriched by $35 As Result of Motor Cops Tagging Actresses

Police court, otherwise known as the city recorder's office, in Eagle Rock, was a popular place this morning.

Wanda Hawley, the beautiful queen of the screen, was scheduled to appear before Judge Harold Ide Cruzan at 9 o'clock.

So was Bebe Daniels, possibly a little more notable for the movie publicity showered upon her ever since she was photographed in a bath tub. That exploit got her into the feature class. A Santa Ana jail sentence won her more notoriety.

Sadly Disappointed

It is sad to recount, however, that the "Johnnies" were disappointed when both of the stars failed to flicker. Wanda didn't even bother to call up the judge, but calmly forfeited $15 bail.

Bebe had more consideration for his honor, who also is an actor. She telephoned from Hollywood it would be impossible to keep her engagement with him.

"If the $20 bail will suffice," said Bebe.

"Yes, yes, that is all right, but don't speed here," quoth the judge over the wire. And the incident was closed.

Business Is Good

However, several other traffic offenders did show up to pay fines as the result of Motorcycle Officer Williams' watchfulness.

One cannot drive the length of Colorado boulevard without finding the motorcycle cops catching someone, it is stated.

Williams even hits out during court and brings in new customers. That's what you call "earning your pay."

Boy Scouts, Troop 2, Engaged In Contest

Glendale Troop No. 2, Boy Scouts of America, is engaged in a contest which is absorbing considerable attention on the part of the members, since the prize is a first-aid kit.

Dr. Mortimer Scaffe, formerly of Glendale, who is now living in Santa Monica, is offering the prize. Dr. Shaffe ever since his removal to Santa Monica has been intensely interested in the activities of the local Troop No. 2, and as an incentive to the boys to learn the history of the Red Cross, has announced the contest.

Each contestant is to write a 1200-word composition on the subject, "How the Red Cross Started, and the Work of the American Red Cross." The manuscripts are to be submitted to Dr. Scaffe, who will judge them.

The contest closes on July 18, just two days prior to the opening of the Boy Scout camp on Catalina, and the winner will have his first-aid kit in time to take it with him to camp.

Benjamin Robison, scoutmaster of the troop, and H. F. Benner, local scout executive, state that they are highly gratified over the interest which is being shown in the boy scout movement, as evidenced by this contest.

REV. EDMONDS TO SPEAK

Rev. and Mrs. W. E. Edmonds will leave early Monday morning for Oakland, where Rev. Edmonds will give five addresses at the State Christian Endeavor convention. He will also occupy the pulpit of one of the prominent churches in Oakland on Sunday morning.

C. H. CUSHING ON TRIP

C. H. Cushing is to leave this evening for a short outing at Catalina Island. He will return home Sunday night and on the Fourth of July he and members of his family will take a motor trip to Tujunga.

SAFE BLOWN OPEN

LOS ANGELES, July 1.—Blowing the doors of two heavy safes in two offices located in the manufacturing district on East Slauson avenue, cracksmen obtained several hundred dollars in loot and escaped, according to a report filed at the sheriff's office today.

LAW ENFORCEMENT BIG NEED, SAYS REV. SHULER

'Fighting Bob' Speaker at Kiwanis Club Luncheon; Scores Bootleggers

"I tell you that that public official who refuses to enforce the law against a man whom he knows to be a bootlegger is more dangerous to the country, its constitution and its future than the bootlegger," declared Rev. "Fighting Bob" Shuler in an address before the Glendale Kiwanis club yesterday noon.

About 200 members of the club and their guests were present at the meeting in the Broadway Inn at Broadway and Glendale avenue. The program opened with the singing of "America," with Herb Henning at the piano and "Ole" Andresen leading the members. During the meal the diners sang "Yip-I-Addy-I-Ay" and "It's a Hard Thing to Beat Kiwanis," and Bill Bode gave a saxophone solo, accompanied by Mr. Henning.

President Lyman P. Clark requested City Manager W. H. Reeves to introduce the speaker, Rev. "Fighting Bob" Shuler of Los Angeles.

Present Day Evils

Rev. Shuler launched into a discussion of the evils of the present day and their remedies. It is not a question of "anti-" or "pro-" or sect or creed or doctrine, he stated, but a question of the display of pure, full-blooded Americanism.

"At least seventy-five per cent of the bootleggers in America are foreigners," he declared, "men who care nothing for our constitution, who care nothing for our laws, our courts, our safety, our future. The time has come to say to that kind of cattle, 'Either you respect the constitution and the government under which you live, or go back to where you belong.'"

Lack of respect for the law and our governmental institutions, said Rev. Shuler, is rapidly gaining predominance in American life. One of the reasons for this he gave as the lack of respect of children for their parents. The average boy of 18, he said, has no respect at all for his father,

Young Men Form Club; Plan Program

Many people in Glendale are not aware of the existence of a certain thriving club comprised of a group of progressive young men, who, having felt the lack of a Y. M. C. A., athletic club, or like institution, have united to supply this want, styling themselves the "Glendonians," with Tom Griffith as president. The club plans to stimulate enthusiasm for the best in entertainment and recreation, resting on the ideals of sociability and fraternity.

A program of brilliant fall activities is already under way. A series of dances are being arranged by the house committee and a theatrical hodge-podge of one-act plays, vaudeville stunts, etc., and musical numbers will be presented early in the season under the direction of Booth Franklin. Mr. Griffith, president of the club, hopes to announce that adequate club quarters will have been established within the next month.

Frieda L. Margwarth and E. Lassley Wed

Miss Frieda L. Margwarth and Elmer M. Lassley were married at 8:30 o'clock last night, Friday, June 30, 1922, at 514 South Brand boulevard, Rev. W. E. Edmonds officiating at the ring ceremony. Mrs. Marie Jacobs and Mr. Julius were the witnesses. Until recently Miss Margwarth has been in the employ of the Pacific Telephone Company. Mr. and Mrs. Lassley left by boat today for their future home in Albany, Oregon.

PHYLLIS BAKER AT HOME

Miss Phyllis Baker of 331 No. Maryland avenue and Miss Ethel Worthington of 335 North Maryland avenue returned yesterday from a week's vacation at Catalina Island.

NOW VISITING AT BALBOA

Mr. and Mrs. V. M. Tresslar and family of 320 West Lexington drive are spending several weeks at their cottage at Balboa Island.

MAY TAKE APPEAL

CARSON CITY, Nev., July 1.—While definite announcement was withheld, due to the absence of Attorney-General Leonard B. Fowler on vacation, it was intimated at his office today that the divorce suit of Mary Pickford will be carried to the supreme court. The state supreme court is said to have denied the attorney-general permission to annul the marriage. It was understood today that if an appeal is taken to the supreme court of the United States it will be on the ground that the decision violated the guaranteed "due process of law." If carried up, it will be a writ of error.

It is believed the woman may have gone to the lonely spot which is near the church burying ground, to spend her last hours on earth in meditation.

HARDING LEAVES CAPITAL FOR VISIT BACK HOME

WASHINGTON, July 1.—Leaving the capital and multitudinous worries to simmer in its own heat, President Harding started back home this afternoon. He left with every confidence that during his week's absence from Washington, the operators and the miners will make material progress in settling the coal strike. He left them negotiating under the careful tutelage of three of his cabinet officers. As for the menacing railroad strike, the president is of the opinion that nothing can be done until after the railway labor board has fought its own fight out to a finish.

Boston; P. F. Holbrook company, New York.

ORGANIZATION AID IS PROMISED FOR PROPOSITIONS

Special Committeemen Will Work for Electrification and New Structure

The new Glendale hotel project on East Broadway and Glendale avenue was endorsed last night by the board of directors of the Chamber of Commerce.

Further, they got behind the electrification of the Union Pacific's Salt Lake Route branch line on Glendale avenue and will assist in raising the $25,000 asked by the Glendale & Montrose railroad which will operate the road to the yellow city car line.

Action on the hotel proposition came after a committee, headed by C. W. Ingledue, made its appearance before the board and expressed a desire to have the Chamber's cooperation. This was gladly extended the East Side Advancement Association and the aid to be given was left in the hands of the hotel committee to which was added Directors R. L. Kent and C. C. Cooper and Treasurer A. R. Eastman. They will assist the east side organization.

Special Committee

Directors Owen C. Emery, George H. Bentley and Peter L. Ferry were named as a special committee of the directors to be added to the railroad and transportation committee, the two groups to work with the committees in charge of the $25,000 railroad bonus campaign. This support is expected to put over the project at an early date.

The railroad committee, headed by Attorney G. H. King, submitted a lengthy report last night, which, in effect, would place the Glendale Chamber in opposition to the divorcing of the Central and Southern Pacific railways.

Complaint against the phone service in Verdugo Woodlands was registered by the F. P. Newport Company and the secretary of the Chamber was instructed to write a letter on the subject; he also will write a letter to the council offering assistance in the opening of Patterson avenue; and the board authorized him to prepare for the reception of sixty or more

Civics Committee Of C. of C. Offers Several Suggestions

A community organization "get-together" on Tuesday night, July 11, at 7:30 o'clock—

A bond issue for comfort stations, following plans to be prepared by the city engineering department—

And the sale of a block of tickets for "Carmen" at Hollywood bowl by the Glendale Chamber of Commerce—

Those were the recommendations of the civics committee to the chamber's board of directors last night and they were adopted.

Dr. Jessie A. Russell, chairman of the civics committee, fostered the idea of getting all improvement associations into a federation and the first meeting of such a group will be held one week from the Fourth of July.

The president and secretary of of each representative organization will be invited to present the projects of their particular district and in that way furnish fodder for the civics committee.

In the matter of comfort stations, efforts have been made for years to obtain one or more, and now the matter will be placed before the council for action. It is probable that the city fathers will accept the suggestion of the chamber and call a bond election, according to those who are in a position to know.

Have You Any Use For Indian Pony?

Sidney Williams of 1139 East Maple avenue is advertising his Indian pony for sale in the classified columns today.

"Why would a boy want to part with a good little horse?" he was asked.

"Well, I have a motor car and am buying a motorcycle, so where will Sandy get any exercise?"

That's that! Now, if you want a pony—read this over again.

L. D. TRIOL PLANS TRIP

L. D. Triol of 735 East Wilson avenue will leave July 5 for a month's trip to Denver, Colo.; Columbus, Mont., where he will visit a brother he has not seen in twenty-five years, Butte and Anaconda, Mont. He will also visit at Seattle and will remain there for the Wayfarers' Pageant, and then go to Portland, and will also visit in Sonoma county, Calif., before returning to Glendale.

REV. STEPHENS TO SPEAK

Rev. Nash Stevens of Los Angeles will occupy the pulpit tomorrow at St. Mark's Episcopal church.

Nat Goldstein Gets Peeved at Questions

ST. LOUIS.—Candidates for places on the City central committees are contemplating with mingled emotions the questionnaire sent out by the League of Women Voters in an effort to "purify" municipal politics.

Circuit Court Judge Clark Nat Goldstein, involved in the Lowden presidential campaign "slush fund," is particularly irritated. Some of the questions, he asserts, are insulting.

With the thermometer hovering around 90 as the campaign grows warmer, many of the candidates have become wrathful. Here are the questions the inquisitive women voters wanted answered:

"State your true name.

"Have you been imprisoned in the city jail, workhouse or penitentiary?

"Have you ever been arrested? If so, for what?

"Have you ever been indicted or charged with a felony or other crime? If so, what?

"Are you skilled in the four fundamental rules of arithmetic?

"Are you able to read and write readily the English language?"

Forecast on Tomatoes By U. S. Department

WASHINGTON—Production of commercial tomatoes in Mississippi is forecast by the department of agriculture at 2,331 cars of 896 crates each. This is an increase of 215 cars over the production of last year.

Melon Production More Than Average

WASHINGTON—The condition of the commercial crop of watermelons on June 1 was 83 per cent, the department of agriculture has announced. This was identical with the May 1 condition, and five points above the seven-year average.

EAGLE ROCK'S SURROUNDINGS INSPIRING TO HOME-MAKERS; ITS SOCIAL LIFE SATISFIES

Daily News Presents Facts and Figures About Activity in Thriving Community Where People Say 'We Live Here'

"Eagle Rock, We Live Here!" is the slogan embodying the happiness and progressive spirit of the about 6000 people who now make their home in the thriving little city on one of California's winding highways encircling the old historic rock bearing the imprint of an eagle's body with outspread wings, called by the Indians Eagle Rock.

Located right at the northern door of the great city of Los Angeles, Eagle Rock could have no more inspiring surroundings than Los Angeles to the south, the city of Glendale to the west and the city of Pasadena to the east.

The Foothill boulevard, which was first an Indian trail, then a road of travel for the mission fathers and early settlers and finally widened by the progress of man into a modern paved highway, runs directly through the city of Eagle Rock, the eastern stretch leading through Pasadena to the orange empire of Pomona, San Bernardino and Redlands, and the western stretch to Hollywood, Santa Monica and the shores of the Pacific ocean.

For those who do not travel by motor, electric lines, satisfactorily frequent service, connect the city with Los Angeles and Glendale.

Covering over four square miles, with an altitude from 600 to 1100 feet above sea level the assessed valuation of Eagle Rock for 1921-1922 was given as $2,410,875.

It is needless to mention the ideal climatic conditions as one of the city's attractions, suffice it to say that Eagle Rock is in Southern California.

Growth of City

Incorporated March 1, 1911, with a population of 600 inhabitants the city of Eagle Rock has enjoyed remarkable growth and prosperity. Five years after incorporation the population was given as 1800, showing an increase of 300 per cent. In 1920 the official census was 2250 and in the past two years the city has almost doubled itself.

Evidences of the remarkable growth may be found in figures gathered from the reports of the building permits. Since the incorporation of the city the permits have totaled not less than $100,000 in any year. In 1913 the permits totaled $204,726, in 1921 the total was $1,103,858 and for the month of January, 1922, the permits amounted to $157,000.

The growth is also reflected in the statement of clearings of the city's bank, now a branch of the Los Angeles Security bank. In January, 1913, the clearings amounted to $93,889.53 and in January, 1921, the clearings totaled $476,162.49.

Educational Features

Every educational opportunity of the modern age is offered an Eagle Rock boy or girl, from kindergarten to college. There are three splendidly equipped and administered grammar schools for children of the primary and elementary ages and upon graduation from these schools the students attend the union high school at Glendale.

For the boy or girl, who seeks a college education, Occidental College, a Presbyterian institution, is located nearby Eagle Rosk. A college with a ninety-acre campus, new buildings costing a half million dollars and an athletic field and stadium costing over $25,000 Occidental College ranks well among the higher institutions of the west.

Another advantage of Eagle Rock young people is that they are near enough to Los Angeles to avail themselves of any of the educational and cultural opportunities offered there.

Contributing to the culture of Eagle Rock home life is the Carnegie library, erected in 1915 at a cost of $10,000 and circulating the finest and most modern books in all lines.

Social Life Is Active

The social life of the city has kept pace with the development of the community. In 1903 a group of Eagle Rock women informally organized a club to be known as the Twentieth Century club. It was incorporated in 1907 and is now in possession of a fine club house and takes an active and prominent part in state club affairs.

Eagle Rock also has flourishing Masonic and Eastern Star lodges, a live Parent-Teacher association, a community theatre organization, a D. A. R. chapter, a realty board, a Chamber of Commerce and countless more informal organizations.

Special mention should be made of the part Eagle Rock took in the war, both by sending her men into the country's service and by aiding the Red Cross.

Now that the war is over the Theodore C. Keothen post, American Legion, perpetuates the memory of a local man who gave his life for his country, and together with the Woman's Auxiliary are two of the leading civic bodies.

About Business Life

Eagle Rock's business section is one of which any small city might be proud. Almost all lines of business are represented and the residents are able to purchase the greater part of their merchandise at home. At all times the stores and offices present busy appearance, bespeaking life and activity of the city.

Another valuable asset of the city is the splendid water supply, which was taken over by the city in 1917 from a private company. The water comes from deep wells fed by the surrounding foothills and gives a test that shows it entirely free from dangers of typhoid or other diseases.

During the past two years the city has spent over $250,000 in paving streets, putting in cement gutters, curbs and sidewalks. About twenty-eight miles of paved streets connect the various parts of the city.

Electric lights illuminate the streets in the residential district and in the business district large ornamental three-light posts are installed.

Building City Hall

Of great interest to all present or prospective Eagle Rock residents is the new city hall, which is being built at the corner of Colorado boulevard and Fairmont avenue. The building, which will be modernly built and equipped, will house all the city offices. It will cover a frontage of 215 feet on Colorado boulevard and 150 feet on Fairmont avenue. William Lee Woollett of Los Angeles is the architect and the construction work is being done by the Rommel Construction company of Glendale. The building will cost $35,000 and will be occupied by August 1, 1922.

Churches Are Numerous

Eagle Rock offers a wide choice for the church goers, the denominations represented in the city being Methodist, Presbyterian, Congregational, Episcopal, Christian Scientist and Catholic.

Advertise With Signs

In order to bring the city to the notice of motorists the Chamber of Commerce has raised $700 for the erection of a big electric sign to be erected in some prominent place. A definite location has not been selected, however, sentiment favors a hilltop near the city.

The slogan, "EAGLE ROCK, We Live Here!" was submitted anonmyously and received first prize in the slogan contest. In boosting for the city and emphasizing the slogan the Chamber of Commerce officials say, "Eagle Rock does not claim a monopoly on all the virtues and attractions that go to make up an ideal homesite; but it happens that she is located in Southern California, in Los Angeles County, and in the foothill district of that county, three recognized facts that in themselves insure ideal living conditions."

Mrs. White to Open Candy and Tea Shop

Mrs. Emma White announces in this issue the opening of a new candy and tea shop at 109 East Colorado boulevard, Eagle Rock, to be known as "White's," Mrs. White has had many years' experience in this same line of business in Gary, Ind., where she opened a shop fourteen years ago and saw it grow from a sand dune on the southern shore of Lake Michigan to a modern city of 65,000 people and she stated to The News reporter that in her belief Eagle Rock will duplicate the marvelous growth of Gary.

Stationery, Paints at Raycroft Shop

Ray M. Rees has just moved the Raycraft Shop to their new home at 111 East Colorado boulevard in the new McDonald block, where most spacious quarters and modern equipment has been provided. In addition to the printing department, it is Mr. Rees' intentions to carry a full and complete line of social and business stationery, cards, paints, both pastel and water color and oil. He will also handle rubber stamps.

Pictures Pay for Summer Playground

Many a pleasant evening will be spent this summer at the Central school in Eagle Rock, where motion pictures are to be shown every Friday evening during the ensuing warm months. All money derived from these performances is going to be used for the benefit of the supervised playground work. If last evening's show is a sample of the kind of pictures and patronage that is going to continue throughout the summer, the idea will be a complete success.

Locals and Personals

William Hunter of 107 East Lomita avenue is planning to spend the week-end at Newhall.

Mr. and Mrs. H. R. Finley of 330 West Doran left this morning for an extended tour of the Yosemite.

Four families of squatters near the city reservoir were invited to seek other homes yesterday by Col. J. D. Fraser, chief of police.

Lloyd Fryer, son of Wallace Fryer of 508 West Pioneer drive, had his tonsils removed Friday at the Glendale Research hospital, and is reported as convalescing satisfactorily from the operation.

Mrs. Kathryn Farrell, Miss Kathryn Farrell and George Farrell of 435 West Patterson avenue, Miss Flynn and William Shinner made up a party who spent several days at Balboa beach recently.

Dr. and Mrs. R. V. Hogue and son of 329 North Jackson street, are at Big Bear lake. Dr. Hogue plans to return home next Sunday, while Mrs. Hogue and son will spend the summer at the lake.

Mr. and Mrs. John Cooper and daughter, Margaret, are recent arrivals from Portland, Ore., and are making their home temporarily with their relative Mr. and Mrs. J. R. Hunter of 401 North Kenwood drive. The Coopers hope to locate permanently in Southern California, either in Glendale or Los Angeles.

Fire protection in the Grandview district was investigated this morning by a representative of the National Board of Underwriters. Fire Chief A. H. Lankford stated that the establishment of the new fire station there should prevent the raise of fire insurance rates when the district becomes built up. He considers the installation of the fire equipment there a good investment for the property owners.

Mr. and Mrs. James Cunningham and children of 1026 Florence Place, arrived home Saturday morning from a five-weeks' visit in New York, Massachusetts and Pennsylvania. While in the east they visited Mrs. Cunningham's mother, Mrs. Elizabeth Crumptpon at Pittsburgh, Pa., and Mr. Cunningham's sister, Mrs. Clifford Vandyke in New York. They report ideal weather conditions and a delightful trip.

Miss Margery Wheeler of Oceano was married to J. Ridel of Pasadena yesterday afternoon in the council chamber at the city hall by Judge F. H. Lowe. They left immediately for a honey moon of unknown destination. Mr. Ridel attempted to get a license at the city hall but was informed that he would have to go to the county clerk's office in Los Angeles. He had called at the local police station to claim a pocketbook belonging to him which had been picked up by one of the members of the force ten days ago. It contained $2 in currency and a check for $29.92.

Congratulations by Charles E. Stanley

Editor The Evening News: A few years ago when you announced your intention to publish a daily paper I wrote you a congratulatory letter offering my moral and financial support and hoping that the people of the valley would give you theirs. I have kept my word and have taken your paper steadily ever since and I desire to say to you, without flattery, that, in my opinion, your Glendale Evening News is one of the best and newsiest evening daily newspapers published on the coast. It is up to date and always has kept pace with the times, and, I believe, always will as long as you remain at the helm. The Glendale Evening News is deserving of the solid support of the people of this entire valley. I used to subscribe for two Los Angeles evening papers and two home papers, but I cut them all out except The News and one morning paper, the Los Angeles Times, which I have taken for more than seventeen years, and consider it at the top of its class, No. 1.

I have watched the growth of our town with the growth of your paper and while they are both surprising and cause the best hustlers to sit up and take notice, there is nothing mythical about either—they both have a healthy substantial growth, just normal and no pessimistic talk can check their onward march.

Personally, I have always been optimistic concerning Glendale's growth and have been a booster, always, for our city and I want to predict right here that Glendale's growth has only commenced. I can visualize a great city in this valley containing wonderful manufacturing plants, large wholesale mercantile establishments and all the ground space occupied with dwellings, business blocks and manufacturing interests until there is no room left.

All it needs to bring about this wonderful transformation is for every man and woman in this valley to prove their loyalty to all parts of this ideal location for a thrifty city.

Very sincerely
CHARLES E. STANLEY.

Deaths and Funerals

MRS. KATHERINE HAJEK

Accompanying the body of her mother, Mrs. Katherine Hajek, who died last Tuesday, Mrs. E. T. Seidenglanz of 426 Burchett street left yesterday evening for Kewanee, Wisconsin.

Upon her arrival there, burial services for her mother will be held in the Catholic church there, and Mrs. Hajek's body will be interred beside that of her husband, son and daughter at her old home.

Mrs. Seidenglanz will remain in Kewanee for several weeks, resting after the heavy strain which she has undergone. Before returning to Glendale she will visit friends and relatives in Wisconsin, and may stop over in Omaha, Neb., to visit relatives there on her return trip.

Munz Ranch Plans Large Celebration

A live Fourth of July celebration is in store for all pleasure seekers who journey to the Munz ranch, Elizabeth Lake, next Tuesday, according to the day's events as outlined by Eli Munz, owner of the ranch and resort.

Among the chief features are a big barbecue dinner at noon, a baseball game from 1 till 2:30 o'clock in the afternoon and dancing in the afternoon and continuing in the evening, when there will also be no admission charged to the grounds and campers will have a free supply of wood and water.

Hawaii In Grip of Radiophone Craze

HONOLULU, T. H. — All Hawaii has gone "radio crazy!"

The craze for radiophones which is sweeping the mainland of the United States has now reached the islands, 2,000 miles out in the Pacific. Companies handling the new apparatus report that they are unable to satisfy the demand for outfits, or even to keep within reasonable distance of their orders, which are now piled so high that at least six months will be required to fill all of them irrespective of those which will come in meanwhile.

In Honolulu and Hilo, the two leading cities of the territory, radio clubs have been organized, with large memberships. Smaller clubs or branches of the two main organiaztions are being formed in every town and village. Talks and lectures by expert operators feature the weekly meetings of these clubs, which are largely attended and most enthusiastic.

In the daily papers of the various island cities columns of space are devoted to radio instructions and news of the latest innovations, as well as to answering questions asked by amateur operators.

A remarkable feature of the craze as it affects Hawaii is the fact that it has hit not alone the white races but the Hawaiians and Orientals as well, many of the most enthusiastic operators of radiophones being the last-named races. What the result may be on future aerial conversation is difficult to determine, as the languages involved are numerous and divergent.

Apple Crop Insurance Meets With Approval

MARTINSBURG, Va.—Insurance men are doing a big business here with a new policy permitting the insurance of apple crops against damage by hail stones on the per barrel basis. Hundreds of thousands of dollars' worth has already been underwritten. The rate is $30 on $1,000 of the valuation or nine cents on a barrel of fruit valued at $3. The change in the form of the insurance has brought about a much lower rate. The crops are being insured by varieties. The insured period dates from issuance of the policy until October 20.

Tag on Pedestrians Proposed In France

PARIS.—Use of identity tags, like those hung from soldiers' necks during the war, has been proposed for the Paris pedestrian. These would preclude the necessity of taking him to the morgue when he falls victim to reckless driving. Establishment of evacuation hospitals at busy corners is also suggested.

Boys Outrank Girls In Detroit Birth Figures

DETROIT, Mich.—More boy babies than girls were born in Detroit during the last year. Figures announced recently by the Department of Health shows the ratio of births 107 males to 100 females. The city's birth rate for the last twelve months was 29 per thousand. The infant mortality rate, based on the number of babies born, indicates deaths under one year of age at the ratio of 84 to 1,000.

$170,000 BUILDING IN EAGLE ROCK DURING JUNE

More Than Millian So Far This Year; Homes Furnish Big Part of Work

By GEORGE VAN SANDS

Approximately $170,000 in building permits issued in Eagle Rock in the month of June. And more than a million for the year so far!

That is some record! Business is so good that the business growth of the city can hardly keep apace with the demand, it is stated.

Merchants of Eagle Rock are astounded while real estate dealers, builders and lumber men are rushing about in the middle of summer as though it was the most prosperous month of the winter season.

Here is what J. B. Brown, president of the Eagle Rock Realty board reports:

What Realtor Says

"Eagle Rock's rapid growth is marked by an unusual demand for homes. We have a dozen building deals under way and have been instructed to draft plans for other homes, as well as two story store and flat building for South Central avenue."

Among the lumbermen the Eagle Rock Lumber company, through its manager, Mr. Swanson, reports that business was never better and that the capacity of this concern is being taxed.

W. R. Letton of the Bettingen Lumber company, successors to the Shirley Allen Lumber company, is more than satisfied with the first fortnight's business under his management.

Lumberman's Views

The Independent Lumber company with sales branch at 117 South Central avenue report a very satisfactory increase in sales during the month of June over any previous month in and around Eagle Rock, and also state that this same condition prevails in the territories supplied by their Glendale, Marian and Tujunga yards.

It was stated by Mr. Fairbanks Eagle Rock manager, that the most of the material delivered during this period was for residence purposes which indicates the continued rapid growth of all the northern section. From inquiries and orders on hand present indications are that the building program will continue over the summer without any decrease in building activities.

Advice has just been received from their mills located at Aberdeen, Wash., stating that all the plants are working to capacity and that sales and shipments during June are considerably in excess of production.

Notes About Town

A vacation in Yosemite is in store for Dr. Irene Meyers, dean of women at Occidental College, it is reported.

Arthur T. Taylor of Townsend avenue is in the Clara Barton Hospital, Los Angeles, recuperating from a fractured left arm.

Miss Yvonne Hancock of Pasadena is visiting her cousin Master Taylor Hancock at 254 North Rosemont avenue, Eagle Rock.

Mrs. A. F. Hougardy of Eagle Rock is the mother of a son born yesterday, Thursday, June 29, 1922, at the Glendale Research hospital.

Miss Amber Young, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. C. W. Young of Rock Glen avenue, is expected to return from school in Virginia this week-end

Mr. and Mrs. George Wilks of Dallas, Tex., are visiting Mrs. Wilks sister, Mrs. H. C. Lynn of 122 South Hartwick avenue. Mrs. Lynn has just recently moved to Eagle Rock from Glendale.

Miss Rosalie Jordan, a teacher in the Ventura schools, is expected to arrive at the home of her parents, 152 North Acacia avenue, this week-end to enjoy the summer vacation.

Mr. and Mrs. O. W. Chase of San Francisco have been visiting for ten days with Mrs. Ruby Chase of 609 South College View, Eagle Rock, and while here spent the week end at Catalina and all enjoyed a most delightful outing.

Mr. and Mrs. A. J. Braasch of 334 North Ellenwood Drive, expect to leave about July 7 for Crescent City, in the northern part of the state and will be away from Eagle Rock four weeks.

Mr. and Mrs. Fred Lenney will be in their new home on North Peyton street, Eagle Rock, after July 1, returning from an extended honeymoon trip which included San Diego and all points of interest in Southern California and Northern Mexico.

Dave S. Matthews, president of the Humphrey-Matthews Company, advertising concern of San Francisco and Stockton, is visiting this week-end with his brother-in-law, E. W. Thompson, and family, on Ellenwood drive, Eagle Rock.

PLAYGROUND TO OPEN

Eagle Rock kiddies are anticipating with pleasure the arrival of Monday when the summer playground, to be maintained by the Parent-Teachers' association and the city schools, will open at the Central school. Mrs. Mabel Collins of the city teaching corps will be in charge of the playground, which will be open from 2 until 6 o'clock every day.

HISTORY AND MYSTERY OF BIRD ROCK REVEAL TALES OF REDMEN, SPANISH SETTLERS AND BANDITS

Wrath of Gods Invoked on Eagle Which Stole Indian Baby, According to Legend; Dashed to Death Against Stone Promontory

By VIRGINIA KAY

As the shadows of afternoon begin to fall the great bird figure on Eagle Rock stands out in as vivid outline as it did a hundred years or so ago, when refugees from pirates of the Pacific came into the port of San Pedro, disembarked and traveled through the plaza of the City of the Angels and on out Verdugo road to shelter in the mountains. As they journeyed on the rough, dusty road their gaze fell on the huge rock towering on the hillside and as they looked they saw an outline of an eagle with spread wings imprinted on the rock's surface. Some of the travelers, weary with their burdens, stopped to rest and hid their treasure chests in the vast cave at the foot of the rock, others went on their way, but all wondered how the figure of a bird came imprinted on the stone surface. They wondered and went on their way calling the rock, Eagle Rock.

Little did they know that the body of a real eagle had made the imprint years, even centuries before. At least so says the Indian legend of Eagle Rock.

Story Told of Eagle

It was in the days when the Indians ruled over the western land. A tribe from the valley of the Cahuenga was camping near a huge rock on a hillside. One morning when the braves joined in the hunt, the squaws, and children, gathered in the cool of the trees to rest. Mothers were busy grinding corn and weaving, children were playing and the papooses were put in the coolest spot for a morning's nap.

Circling above the tree tops was a huge eagle and as the Indian women became more absorbed in their work the closer the great bird drew until with one swoop he dashed down under the trees and flew up again with a crying papoose in his great talons.

Invoke Wrath of Gods

Consternation reigned among the women and children, they were greatly confused and the baby's mother terror stricken. In their excitement they called upon the Unseen, invoking his care of the baby and his wrath upon the giant bird.

It was then that the gods of their fathers heeded their cries for the great eagle flying at terrific speed dashed against the nearby rock and was imbedded with spread wings in its surface, while the papoose fell unharmed to the foot of the massive rock, which still bears the imprint of the eagle's body and is still called Eagle Rock.

Then Spaniards Came

Then the Spaniards came, and with sword and blunderbuss drove the aborigines into the "tall and uncut." Later came the white man, and Eagle Rock now hangs on the edge of a rancho owned by a man called Campbell-Johnson, near golf links called Annandale, after a little spot high in the highlands of Scotland.

Some years ago adventurous youths clambered down the face of the rocks on ropes, and after dangling between heaven and earth and kicking like spiders, swung into the caves of Eagle Rock and started to investigate the yawning caverns.

The first thing they found was a skeleton, and the remains of a stout oaken chest, a couple of brass handles and a lock plate with ancient initials "H. M. K." carved in its surface.

The caves were once the cache of a gang of as desperate bandits as ever terrorized California. From the crown of the rock the highwaymen could see miles and miles in every direction. At the present time Pasadena, Los Angeles, Glendale, Altadena, Santa Catalina Island, Venice and Ocean Park and the sea can be seen almost at a glance from the top of Eagle Rock.

Battles Fought on Rock

When hard pressed, as they occasionally were by gangs of brave troopers, the bandits would "dig out" for the Big Tujunga pass, and live in retirement until the soldiers got tired. Other times they would defend the rock against the representatives of the law. It must have been an easy task. On three sides the rock is absolutely inaccessible, a glance over the edge would reveal a terrible chasm with ant-like figures of men at the bottom, and the sides of the rock would not afford foothold for a fly.

The fourth side is approachable through a break in the hills. One man with a good gun could hold it against an army. Prisoners, when taken for ransom by the bandits, were lowered into these caves. They could easily escape, by jumping out into the atmosphere 200 feet above the hard, hard ground. Few did so.

We all believe in ghosts, more or less. It's a weird sensation to look over toward the rock just before dawn some morning and see a great fire blazing on its summit. There are no charred logs to be found after the fires, and some whisper that, once in a long time, the bandits and big tribesmen and the prisoners who failed to get their food and water in the caves, gather up there, around the fire, and talk over old times.

FRIENDS ENTERTAINED

The Misses Lorraine and Genevieve Lawrence, daughters of Mr and Mrs. H. O. Lawrence of 148 Eddy avenue, entertained twenty of their Glendale friends last Sunday evening. A musical program was enjoyed by those present, who were Mr. and Mrs. James Palmer and daughters, Riva and Lucile; Otis Leland, Mr. and Mrs. C. H. Jones and Mr. and Mrs. Charles Cressy and son Harry.

Lumber Company Head Is Living In Modern Log Cabin

In talking to Emil F. Swanson of the Eagle Rock Lumber Company he remarked that he lived in the only log house in Eagle Rock, at 333 West Adams street. It sort of surprised the reporter that a man at the head of a big, modern lumber company with the very best of lumber to choose from, should be building his house out of logs, and, out of curiosity, drove out on Adams street to look at it.

While there is a log house at this number on Adams street it bears no resemblance whatever to the pictures of the log house that was the birthplace of Lincolh; in fact, this place is a 1922 model bungalow, having the most modern appointments.

OFFICEHOLDERS OF EAGLE ROCK

Mayor and Official Family Listed for Residents' Information

In the development of any city those who serve in official capacities have a part in making history, no matter how great or small their office. The size of the community often makes it impossible for them to know all residents but in a city the size of Eagle Rock every resident should know those who serve.

Eagle Rock residents should know:

Mayor Sherrill B. Osborne.
Elmer M. Bergsvik, Horace B. Curtis, George C. Mattison and Jesse H. Taylor, city trustees.
Benjamin B. Martsolf, city clerk.
W. J. Cook, city treasurer.
R. L. McNitt, city attorney.
Judge H. I. Cruzan.
Claude E. Bramble, street superintendent.
E. H. Harwood, superintendent of schools.

H. G. Warren Tells of Realty Increase

H. G. Warren of 214 South Central avenue, Eagle Rock, who is one of the large real estate operators, and is in a position to know, is credited with the statement that there are two new houses a day being built in Eagle Rock. As a typical example of the remarkable increase in real estate values in this city, Mr. Warren points to the particular lot on which his office is located, a piece of property that last July he paid $1000 for, and a few months later sold 20 feet of it for $1500, and still has 35 feet remaining that he conservatively estimates as now being worth around $5000.

MORE MAINS FOR WATER SYSTEM FAVORED

Eagle Rock C. of C. Seeks 123 Fire Hydrants and Other Improvements

Recommendations were made at a meeting of the Eagle Rock chamber of commerce the first of the week that Eagle Rock take over that part of the Glendale municipal water system serving homes on the west side and install new mains at a cost of $8300, as the present equipment is considered insufficient.

The committee which brought in the recommendations was composed of A. L. McCammon, L. O Hatch, E. F. Swanson, F. C. Eckert and C. W. Jones. Mr. Eckert is superintendent of the Eagle Rock Water Company. The second most important consideration was the installation of 123 fire hydrants, four-inch connections in the residence section and six-inch taps in the business section. This will cost $15,267.

Four-inch water mains for West Las Flores drive, Stanley avenue and other streets were proposed at a cost of $24,502. The members of the chamber present heartily endorsed the report, and will call upon the city trustees to submit a bond issue for the improvements.

'Bevy' Name of New Girls' Organization

A group of girls, calling themselves the "Bevy," met at the home of Miss Phronsa Jean Thompson on Ellenwood Drive on Wednesday evening and elected the following officers for two months: President, Loeta Bannister; vice president, Edith Hicks; secretary, Harriet Jetter; corresponding secretary, Phronsa Jean Thompson; treasurer, Lyda Eughbanks. The girls are having their first outing Wednesday, July 5, at Long Beach, Mrs. Thompson to chaperone.

GARDEN FETE SUCCESS

The home of Mr. and Mrs. G. E. Arbogast of 212 North Highland avenue was the scene of a very enjoyable garden fete yesterday afternoon and evening. Luncheon was served at 11 o'clock, followed by games and entertainment until 6 o'clock, when a real dinner was served by the Congregational women. A large attendance filled the beautiful grounds and home.

FEDERAL CASH TO BUILD ROADS IS NOW ASSURED

Automobile Chamber of Commerce Advises of Appropriations

Federal aid in the construction of highways was definitely assured for three years more when members of the house and senate voted to authorize appropriations of $50,000,000, $65,000,000 and $75,000,000, respectively, for the fiscal years of 1923, 1924 and 1925. Further sums of $6,500,000 were voted for each of the fiscal years 1924 and 1925 for forest road construction, the funds for this work for 1923 having been cared for in earlier legislation.

This information is conveyed to members in a circular letter from the National Automobile Chamber of Commerce.

The authorization for 1923 carries with it definite authority to the secretary of agriculture to enter into contractual relations with state highway commissioners for road construction. A statement says:

"The appropriations will be made under the provisions of the federal aid act of 1916 as amended in 1919 and 1921, which means that the expenditures must be made on those highways comprising the 7 per cent system of main roads. The states are required to maintain the highways once built.

Limits Federal Aid

"The most important change in the organic act is an amendment which limits federal aid participation to $16,250 per mile for 1923 and $15,000 per mile thereafter. This contrasts with the $20,000 per mile maximum of 1919 and the $10,000 limit of 1916. The limitation will work no hardship in average conditions, but for special situations where traffic has become very heavy, it is not improbable that some change will have to be made at a later session of congress to prevent the waste resultant from too low a type of construction. Other changes in the law permit the government to join in the construction of railroad underpasses

Gasoline Price Set for Yosemite Valley

YOSEMITE, July 1.—A price of 35 cents per gallon for gasoline in Yosemite Valley has been approved by the government, this charge being based on refinery cost plus the expense of transportation by rail and motor truck to this place. Any fluctuation in the price at the refinery will be reflected in the price here.

Plans are being made for filling stations at Tuolumne Meadows Lodge on the Tioga road and at Hetch Hetchy Lodge (Mather Station) near the Big Oak flat road.

NEW FENDER STOPS CAR IF HIT

Photo shows the test of a really new safety device for automobiles, tried out in the presence of Chief of Police O'Brien of San Francisco. A spring cable "bumper" is so connected that on hitting a pedestrian it instantly shuts off the ignition and applies the brakes. In this test a car going fifteen miles an hour was stopped in two feet automatically. A secondary bumper is designed to protect the machine itself should a solid object be struck. The spring cable bumper "gives" a foot, eliminating the first shock when the pedestrian is struck.

PEDESTRIANS GET BEST OF IT, IS CLAIM MADE

Legal Department of Auto Club Now Conducting Thorough Inquiry

A widespread and intensive consideration of the rights of motorists and pedestrians is being conducted at the present time by the legal department of the Automobile Club of Southern California.

Some interesting results are expected from this investigation which will possibly have a direct bearing upon the regulations of street traffic throughout America, it is declared by local club officials.

At the present time the pedestrian usually gets the best of it, it is pointed out, and has an unrestricted freedom of the highways and streets which is not accorded in the same measure to the owner of an automobile.

May Suggest Laws

The Auto club's object in looking into the matter with the possible intention of suggesting new laws for California is for the adjustment of affairs between the motorist and the pedestrian so that both may function more harmoniously.

Now, as things stand, the pedestrian is allowed to wander into the highway or street at will, wherever and whenever the spirit moves him and with no regard to any moral rights which the driver of a motor car may have, it is pointed out by the authorities.

Honk! Honk! Here Is Proof Pastors Can Hit on High

With the Rev. Nash Stevens filling the pulpit tomorrow at the Episcopal church in Glendale, there is every reason to believe that automobile row is becoming churchified.

Dr. E. E. Ford, for instance, is the Baptists' sky pilot and you know what they say about a Ford getting you to heaven on high.

Rev. Clifford E. Cole is the eight-cylinder dynamo of the Central Christian congregation while they have a Harley (Rev. Harley G. Preston) at the Pacific Avenue Methodist Episcopal church.

Get More Mileage

At the end of every 2500 miles' service, a tire should be deflated, dismounted, soapstoned and grit removed and the inside of the casing wasned with gasoline. After drying the inside should be dusted, the tire mounted and the tube charged with fresh air. During this operation, a close inspection should be made of the tread for cuts and fragments of glass. The rims should be cleaned of rust and painted.

Stowage of Tops

Detachable tops of cars, stored away for the summer, should never stand against the wall, as this will cause the top to warp and fall out of alignment. Fasten four large rings to the rafters in the ceiling and suspend the top on ropes from the rings. The weight will be equally distributed, making it impossible for the top to get out of shape.

BIG BEAR VALLEY JOURNEY LURES MANY PEOPLE

One Day Drive Proves of Unusual Interest to Thousands Yearly

For a one-day trip, wherein the excursionist can embody about all the scenery contrasts that many travel days and days to see, can be found in one of the greatest drives of which this section boasts. This drive will take one from cities to mountains, through rugged passes, forests, across a desert and into a mountain paradise where those who wish may hunt, fish and camp to the heart's delight.

It is possible, and easy, for motorists to reach Big Bear valley by way of the Mojave desert, according to the reports of the official observers who piloted the way in a Lexington minute-man six. The desert route is the only one open, the observers say, as heavy rains have made the way from Redlands through Mill Creek canyon quite impassable.

Made in One Day

However, it is possible to make the desert journey in one day, as, while the distance is longer, the roads are better and permit of more average speed. Leaving Los Angeles the motorist will go north on Huntington Drive until he reaches the Foothill boulevard, where he will turn east and proceed to San Bernardino. Turning north on Mt. Vernon avenue, the motorist goes along into Cajon Road through Cajon Pass, continuing north past Cajon, out of the mountains and into the Mojave desert. The road swings along by way of Hesperia, Deadman's Point, Fifteen-Mile Point, Box S Ranch, Box S Springs, Cushenbury, skirting Baldwin lake and then along into the celebrated Big Bear valley.

Plenty of Fish

Here is the paradise long sought by the hunter and the fisherman. The latter will find that the waters of Big Bear lake abound in rainbow, speckled, salmon and Dolly Varden trout, and the fisherman of only average ability should have no difficulty in making the limit catches. When the hunting seasons are on, the gunner will find delight in tramps after mountain quail, squirrel, dove, deer, or at any season in rambles after the coyote, fox and bobcat. All these kinds of game are to be found within easy distance of the camping grounds.

Improved Highways Big Aid to Business

Figures in a report made to congress by the joint committee on agricultural inquiry, show that while the motor vehicle traffic has increased more than 1300 per cent in the period 1910 to 1921, the actual expenditures for highway construction and maintenance, taking into consideration the increase in cost of materials and labor during the war and the readjustment period, was only slightly over 200 per cent. According to Congressman Sydney Anderson, chairman of the committee, "the combination of inbound farm products and outbound supplies by motor truck in some sections has concentrated upon the motor truck service most of the traffic within thirty, forty and fifty miles.

"Since the growth in the use of the motor vehicle has been very markedly in advance of highway construction and maintenance, and since it has brought with it a new and heavier form of highway traffic, it becomes evident that large funds will have to be expended if the 2,500,000 miles of rural highways in the United States are brought up to the standard of efficiency comparable to the extended use of the roadbeds.

"Another effect of improved highways is to enable the farmer to hold his products on the farm for a longer time. Where highways are unimproved the farmer must move his produce when the roads are good, which is generally at the season when the prices are lowest. Improved highways thus make not only for a broader market but for a more stabilized one.

"The committee believes there should be regulation of the use of the highways, especially with respect to overloading, and maximum loading to be based upon the facts so developed. It will also urge that since poor highways not only increase the cost of transportation of commodities from farm to market, but also affect the comfort of the farmer and prevent him and his family from a full enjoyment of communication with his neighbor, all highways, wherever possible should be improved and adequately maintained."

Limit Tire Sizes

It is suggested in a report from the tire division of the Rubber Association of America, that pneumatic tire sizes be limited to four. the sizes recommended are 30x 3½, 32x4, 32x4½ and 33x5.

MOTORISTS ENJOY NOONDAY MUSIC BY ROADSIDE

Special Receiving Apparatus Being Put Out For Owners of Cars

By ALEXANDER JOHNSTON
Editor of Motor

Radio on the motor car is already an accomplished fact. Receiving sets are now produced especially designed for motor service, and it is possible for the motorist and his guests to enjoy a noonday concert as they lunch by the roadside.

A number of different methods of installing radio on the motor car have been resorted to since this new branch of the science of communication became a national enthusiasm. The first consideration in installing a radio receiving set is the aerial. Several different methods of handling this are now in vogue. One popular method is to suspend the aerial above the top of the car, from some projection in front to another in the rear, and connecting with the receiving set on the rear seat. This serves pretty well, but it has certain definite drawbacks which are obvious.

Used When in Motion

A second method of handling the aerial problem is by the loop or coil type. This consists primarily of a box frame of some type, on which are wound turns of wire. The coil should be made so that it can rotate around an axis, and the wires should lie in the same vertical plane. A coil aerial may be placed over the back of the rear seat.

The two aerials described above are intended to be used even when the car is in motion. If the car owner does not want to listen in while his vehicle is moving, his problem is very much simplified. Instead of having a permanent aerial, he can erect one anywhere that he cares to bring his car to a halt. In this case the aerial is very much the same as the one he has running into his house. About 100 feet of copper wire are used. The wire is carried out from the car and attached to the trunk of a convenient tree, and the set is ready to listen in. Some operators attach a stout cord to the end of the wire and tie the end of the cord to a stone. By throwng the stone over the limb of a tree at a good height from the ground they pull the wire into place and have a good, high aerial, capable of giving excellent results. A second wire is strung off along the roadside or into the nearest field to give the ground. A metal plate immersed in a stream forms an excellent ground.

Sets of Two Kinds

The question of "ground" must always be considered in installing a radio set, and the sets which are intended to enable the owner to receive messages while the car is in motion, are grounded to the frame of the car.

Radio receiving sets may be of two kinds, the so-called "crystal" sets, with which no outside current source is required, and the vacuum tube sets, which call for a set of dry cells and a storage battery. The storage battery on the car may be utilized for this service, so that a few dry cells for the high voltage battery are all that are needed to make the vacuum tube set a practical application on the motor car.

Raid on Auto Law Violators, Is Threat

SACRAMENTO, July 1.—There are a number of things wrong with automobile traffic, and automobile driving in the state in general and particularly within the cities, according to Director C. J. Chenu of the state division of motor vehicles.

Chenu has recently completed an executive tour of the state and the principal criticism he makes is that drivers run too close together on the highways. He noticed many cars closer than the legal distance of 15 feet, and he declares this is not only a violation of the law, but extremely dangerous.

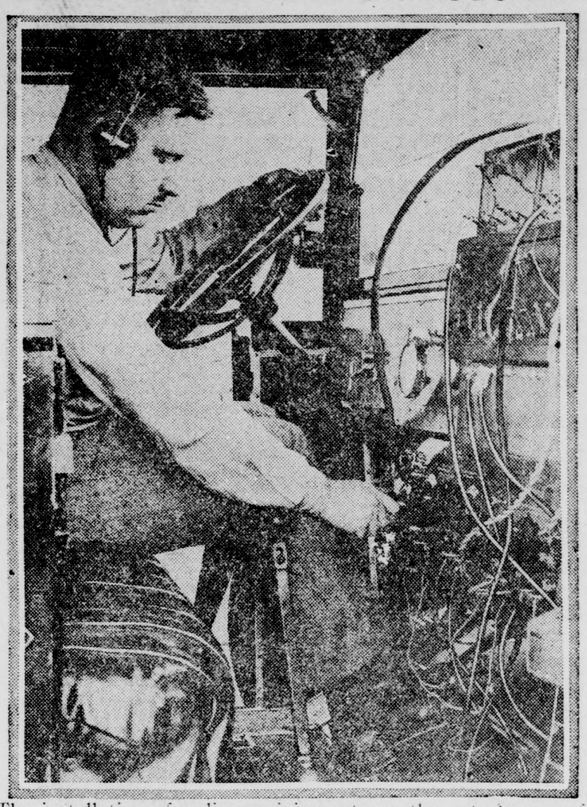
"Many of the rear-end collisions," said Chenu, "undoubtedly are caused by just this thing. When the man in front stops suddenly the man inside 15 feet behind cannot stop and plunges into him. Drivers should observe this prescribed distance."

Chenu says it appears, particularly about Sacramento, that drivers think one light is sufficient at night. Observations recently made reveal a great many violations of the headlight law in this city, says Chenu. And a raid is promised this section shortly. Chenu declares there is no excuse for headlight violation, inasmuch as there are headlight test stations where lights may be properly adjusted.

The director also issued a warning against the use of certain lenses which he says are illegal with ten or more candle-power bulbs, when used at a tilt of four feet or more in 100 feet. He says there are many of these upon the highway and they make a dangerous glare. Persons caught with them during the proposed raid here will be promptly arrested, the director warns.

Another law violation noted by Chenu is the habit of driving on the left side of the road.

RADIO NOW IS USED ON AUTO BUS



The installation of radio receiving sets on the auto busses of California Transit company, operating from Oakland to neighboring towns, has caused a big business boom. This picture shows the chauffeur-operator adjusting his apparatus.

New Speedway Will Be Built In North

SAN FRANCISCO, July 1—The Greater San Francisco Speedway, destroyed by fire on last Sunday, will be reconstructed in time to permit the staging of a national championship race on Sunday, October 15.

The announcement was made by William Pickens, general manager of the San Carlos speed plant, following a meeting of the speedway officials on Wednesday. Workmen will begin clearing the debris of the old track tomorrow morning and actual rebuilding operations will commence within two weeks, the date depending on the arrival here of John S. ("Jack" Prince, noted track constructor, now in the east.

"The new course will be much faster than the old track," declared Mr. Pickens. "It is possible that we will build a one- and one-half mile track instead of the one and one-quarter mile circle which was burned, but this detail will not be determined until the arrival of Mr. Prince."

Watch Wire Spokes

Wire wheels on motor cars should be given frequent inspections to see that none of the spokes work loose, advises Robert Thompson company, top and body builders. Any looseness can be readily determined by the sound of the spoke when struck with some metallic object.

Motor Trucks Will Prevent Starvation

DETROIT, July 1.—"America will not go hungry if a railroad strike hits the country, as some railroad leaders predict."

This was the observation of Alvan MacAuley, veteran motor-truck manufacturer, in asserting that the country's motor trucks and the systematizing of their operation now have reached the point where they are capable of handling almost any national transportation emergency.

"The automobile truck," said Mr. MacAuley, "has taken the edge off railroad strike threats. Because it, is profitable to do so Detroit is sending trucks 120 miles into the country to gather up its milk supply. If trucks can perform that service at a profit, then in an emergency when costs cannot be considered, they can be used for almost any necessity that may arise."

Mr. MacAuley pointed to the fact that in 1921 motor trucks hauled 1,430,000,000 tons, while the railroads hauled 1,642,251,000 tons. Trucks now haul the greatest part of every city's food supply, he added.

FINE PLAYGROUND FOR ALL SOUTH IS DESCRIBED

Mountainous Sections of San Diego Little Known For Scenic Beauty

When this section awakens to the fact that the mountainous section of San Diego county is one of the state's greatest playgrounds and one that is easily reached here by motor car, thousands will head in that direction during the summer months while on week-ends or vacation camping trips. But a comfortable day's ride from Los Angeles, the Laguna Mountains of the Cleveland National Forest, without the ruggedness of the more northern ranges, are wonderfully picturesque, and their wooded slopes and crests and their beautiful valleys and lakes and streams can furnish recreation for many thousands without danger of crowding.

Lack of good roads and an absence of resorts have held that section back, but it now bids fair to come into its own. San Diego county has been doing a lot of road building in its "back country," and it intends doing a lot more. Some of the finest camping spots in the entire state are located there among the big pines and the red cedars, and year after year they are visited by comparatively few people—and all for the reason that but few know anything about the wonders of the region.

Easy Grades There

By way of Oceanside, San Luis Rey, Escondido, Ramona and Julian, this playground is easily reached in a short day's drive from Los Angeles. The roads are in excellent condition and the grades are very easy unless one gets off the main traveled highway, and even then there is nothing that need stall any car that is in good condition and piloted by a good driver.

Recently distributors sent a touring car through the section in search of touring information.

Riding in a demonstrator that had been driven a little more than 3000 miles, the party left Los Angeles early in the morning, and made Oceanside in a comfortable fram of mind. Turning northeast at this point, the car traveled over the newly paved stretch of road in the San Luis Rey valley as far as the mission, when the fork to the south and about three miles west of Bonsall was followed to Escondido.

After topping the bluffs east of Oceanside, the road winds through valleys that are mainly devoted to dairying, and the extent of this industry in that quarter is surprisingly large.

Escondido is a bustling and progressive town of a farming section, and five miles south of it—reached by a spur road now being graded anew—is Hodges Lake, stocked with trout and perch. The road at present does Estimate each of these exclusive improvements at only a nominal value. Then you realize why the Light-Six ranks with cars listed at several hundred dollars more.

In addition, you have the advantages of better design and better performance. Studebaker is the largest builder of six-cylinder cars because of these facts.

Get acquainted with the Light-Six. Test its riding and driving qualities. Then you will appreciate that the enthusiasm of these owners is based on a performance that is not equaled by any other car of like price—or by many cars of much higher price.

Better value is emphasized by the complete equipment of the car. It includes cowl ventilator operated from the instrument board; cowl parking lights at base of the windshield; inside and outside door handles; large, rectangular plate glass window in rear curtain; a thief-proof transmission lock, reducing the rate of theft insurance to Light-Six owners 15 to 20 per cent; and cord tires.

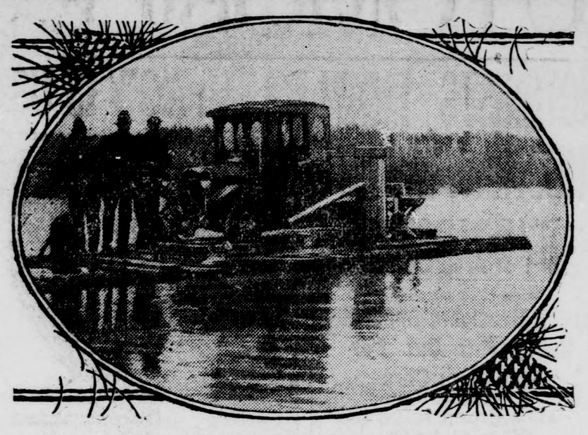
SPEED WAGON PROVES USEFUL



This shows the Reo Speed Wagon being used as a tugboat. The same car was also used for hauling pulp wood, hay, grain, potatoes and lumber, also human beings. The Speed Wagon never failed to deliver the goods.

"Proof that the Reo Speed Wagon is adaptable to various needs, says Harry E. White, Inc., at South Brand and San Fernando road, "is furnished by the case of one in use by a lumber company at Bangor, Maine.

"This truck was used during the winter of 1920-1921 for hauling pulp wood. During the fall it was used for hauling hay, grain, potatoes and lumber. Later in the season it served for hauling supplies into the woods and for taking men to the lumber camp.

"The owner of the Speed Wagon, L. J. Butterfield, this spring decided to try his truck at towing logs, instead of using the launch ordinarily used. By means of a float and paddle wheels he built a towboat which, he says, works much better than the launch because it will operate in shallower water. He is now able to tow a boom of logs in any depth of water that will float them.

"The Speed Wagon has been put on dry ground once more, and, equipped with a trailer, is hauling long lumber. The average load which it now carries is 1400 feet of dry boards or 1000 feet of green lumber.

"Another novel use to which the Reo Speed Wagon has been put," continues Mr. White, "is to carry a portable radio outfit which will receive messages and concerts not only while standing still, but also while the truck is in motion on the highway.

"Staebler & Sons, Ann Arbor, Mich., distributors of Reo cars and Speed Wagons mounted the complete receiving outfit on a standard Speed Wagon chassis with an express delivery body.

"The set consists of a detector with three stages of amplification and the aerial is made of about a hundred feet of wire, in a circular loop about three feet in diameter. The loop is carried on the rear, or may be taken inside the body when traveling.

"The ground connection for the set is effected through the chassis of the car when moving, or by a rod pushed into the soil when it is standing, with slightly better results.

"The radio-equipped Speed Wagon has created a great deal of interest, particularly in the country and smaller towns. The music is usually audible for a block, and crowds gather to hear the concerts received," stated Mr. White.

Comfort and Mileage Great Need In Tire

"How to combine the greatest possible resiliency with the greatest possible strength is the problem facing every manufacturer of high grade tires," according to C. H. Roudebush, sales manager of the Western Auto Supply company, 205 South Brand, distributor of Western Giant Cord Tires.

"The maximum of neither can be employed because the maximum of one can be obtained only at the sacrifice of the other.

"For instance, an inner tube furnishes an example of a theoretical tire of the greatest possible resiliency. The riding qualities of such a tire would be marvelous for the mile or two it would last, if it would hold pressure enough to support the car.

"On the other hand, the solid truck tire is an example of the greatest possible strength, no punctures, no blowouts, no rim cuts and the last possible mile of service down to the last shred of rubber. But what an awful ride it would give one at thirty-five miles an hour.

"So, to combine these two qualities in the greatest possible degree is the aim of tire engineers, to produce a tire that will permit a motorist to travel in comfort at any speed desired and yet will stand up and deliver the mileage, too.

"The problem has been solved, apparently to as near perfection as human beings can hope to come, in the Western Giant Cord Tire. Here we have the desired resiliency and the tough, rugged tread that stands the road shocks and abuse and delivers long, untroubled miles," concluded C. H. Roudebush.

Highway Complete

The Arkansas-Louisiana highway, pronounced one of the finest roads in the south, is now completed, according to information received from the state highway department. The entire system is now open to traffic. The road is 153 miles long. It cost approximately $3,500,000.

Highways Clear

The action of the California Highway commission in keeping unnecessary signs and other structures off the right of way of the state highways has been seconded by the supervisors of Kings, Tulare and other counties who are following the same policy.

FEDERAL CASH TO BUILD ROADS IS NOW ASSURED

and provide heavy penalties for misuse of government funds.

"The government has now appropriated or authorized a total road fund of $587,000,000 since the passage of the federal aid act in 1916. Figures of the Bureau of Public Roads shows that construction has been proceeding for the last three years at the rate of approximately $80,000,000 annually in federal funds and as state organizations have now become well stabilized, it is anticipated that this rate will be exceeded in 1923 and succeeding years.

More May Be Needed

"With a reasonable cumulation of funds from past years on hand as the fiscal year 1923 opens, the appropriations for 1923 and 1924 seem sufficient to enable the states to proceed at a maximum of efficiency. It will probably be found, however, that appropriations for 1925 will have to be increased somewhat as by that time the peak of highway production should be reached if the nation is to have a completed system of 7 per cent of its highways within the decade.

"As it is, the fiscal year beginning July 1 will be the largest in the history of road construction, if normal conditions of freightage and material prevail."

Watch Condition of Your Radio Battery

Watch the condition of your radio battery as carefully as you watch the amount of gasoline in your car, is the advice of Miles A. Stone, proprietor of the local Prest-O-Lite Battery service station at 106 West Harvard.

"It is not advisable," says Mr. Stone, "to allow the radio battery to became more than three-quarters discharged for this increases the formation of lead sulphate which is difficult to reduce by recharging.

"This formation, if continued too long, will cause the plates to buckle and ultimately ruin the battery.

"Frequent testing will reveal the exact condition of the solution inside. It is heavy when the battery is fully charged and weak when discharged.

"Unlike automobile batteries, radio batteries are operated at extremely low discharge rates, one, two or three amperes. When the battery capacity is known it is very simple to estimate roughly how many ampere hours have been used.

"For instance, if a battery's capacity is sixty ampere hours and it has been discharged in use at the rate of two amperes for three hours each evening simple arithmetic tells us that it will be fully discharged in ten days.

"The other method, testing with the hydrometer, is very easy and far more reliable. This instrument is well worth the nominal sum charged, and performs the double function of testing and adding water conveniently.

"The solution is drawn up in the hydrometer by means of a bulb and the specific gravity of the electrolyte may then be read by means of a graduated scale on the small float inside. The various stages of charge and discharge may be seen at a glance."

Restaurant and Home Is This Studebaker

Speaking of service the prize should be awarded the Studebaker motor cars for their consistent goodness and performance, according to C. F. Myers, owner of the 1913 model, which he has rigged up as a restaurant and home combined.

In company with his son Mr. Myers will leave Glendale about the fifteenth of July for his fourth trip in the Studebaker across the continent, following the fairs. Mrs. L. E. Myers also will accompany the party.

Panels on the sides of the cafe-home car will be sold to national advertisers and many of the country fairs in the middle western state will be visited.

Hupmobile Gains Many Friends by Various Economies

"The long life, low upkeep and general economical running qualities of the Hupmobile have resulted in a demand which it keeps us very busy to supply," states L. Bartlett of Bartlett & French, Hupmobile distributors, at 246 South Brand.

"The materials and shop practice employed in the Hupmobile factory are the same as those in the manufacture of the larger cars," continues Mr. Bartlett. "The result is that the Hupmobile, series R-7, like all the Hupmobiles, will stand up under the most severe tests where a less sturdily built car would go to pieces. That is the reason for the long life of the Hupmobile.

"The best salesman for the Hupmobile," he says, "is the owner. I have yet to see an owner who is not the biggest kind of a booster for the car. Why, just the other day a man who had driven through from Iowa came in just to tell me what his Hupmobile had done.

"This man had come clear through without a bit of trouble. On the desert he passed many cars, he told me, which were boiling or were laid up for some cause or other along the road. The Iowa man said that the water in his radiator did not boil at any time during the trip, and he made good time, too."

Mr. Bartlett has a large order of Hupmobiles on the way which he expects to receive within a few days. However, he says, he can't get them too fast to dispose of.

Buick Four Sales Show Steady Growth

The growth of Buick Four sales is paralleled in the story of the growth of Buick Six sales, according to William A. Tanner of Tanner & Hall, 237 South Brand boulevard, who stated recently that the factory was bending every effort toward continuing the four-cylinder models as leaders in their class.

"Production of the Buick Four was started because the officials wanted to build a car, which would be a leader in quality and efficiency," declared E. T. Strong, general sales manager of the Buick Motor Car company.

"In those days it was a fierce struggle to carry on industrially. Yet the Buick Four did develop a demand and this today is a fitting monument to the early struggle. Post-war days have brought new progress in the face of the past depression.

"The sale of Buick Four has exceeded even the factory expectations because it has met with immediate favor all over the country. We are looking forward to the coming year as the zenith in production of these models. Everywhere the Fours like the Sixes are proving their worth as a fixture in the automobile world."

Essex Car Proves Perfect In Australia Reliability Contest

Driving an Essex car, William Stuart, for the third consecutive time, won the one-day reliability contest promoted by the Royal Automobile club of Australia against thirteen other American and European cars. His car made a perfect mark in every part of the contest, scoring 400 points out of a possible 400.

Mr. Stuart has driven this same car in contests for two years and has never been beaten.

The contest included three sections—general reliability, petrol consumption and hill climbing. The general reliability section comprised a sealed bonnet-nonstop engine run, points being deducted for effecting any repairs, adjustments or replacements to the car, including tire repairs which occupied more than a limited time. The cars had to be fully loaded and in complete touring condition so that actual touring conditions were duplicated to the greatest extent possible.

The test for petrol consumption was from Sydney to Karrajong Heights and return, more than 102 miles. A combination of rather poor roads, rain and the mountainous country made it a very thorough test of the merits of each car entered.

The Essex made the 102 miles on 2.68 gallons of petrol, averaging 38.70 miles per gallon. It was given 100 points for this remarkable feat, a similar number for placing first in the hill climb and a perfect 200 in reliability.

In each of the three contests promoted by the club this year, Mr. Stuart's famous Essex has now secured an outright victory, giving him a big lead in the competition for the Dunlop Aggregate trophy.

Late Model Rebuilt Nash Big Bargain

A guaranteed late model rebuilt Nash touring car for the Fourth of July junketing trip.

Sounds pretty good, doesn't it? Well, that's just what E. B. Sutton of Glendale Nash sales at 112 South Maryland avenue thinks about it, too.

So he is taking space in The Glendale Evening News to tell the public that is to motor this summer how good bargains can be obtained in the machines taken on "trade ins" for the new Nash fours and sixes.

Sales are keeping the local dealer's force speeded up right during the summer and delivery on orders for the new models, in some instances, will take a little time.

However, there is a number of Nashes on hand which may be just the model you are looking for, according to Mr. Sutton.

Because of the railway tie-up in the district of St. Johns, N. F., automobiles were pressed into service to convey passengers and mail to isolated points.

FIRE FIGHTERS ARE OFTEN BLOCKED BY MOTORISTS

Sometimes Impossible For Engines to Get Close to Blaze, Claim

Fire fighters in southern California are peeved at auto owners.

According to a report just issued by the Automobile Club of Southern California the motorists of this part of the state, in their eagerness to get a look at all the fires in their neighborhood are blocking the progress of the fire departments.

That it is often actually impossible for the engines to get near a fire on account of the blockades of motor cars which rush to the scene is the testimony submitted to auto club officials by the chiefs of the fire departments in the southern counties.

"Everybody gets to the fire but the fireman," is the way the chief of one department has phrased his complaint. "When the engine arrives they find that every auto owner for miles around is there ahead of them, because the roads were so clogged by curious motorists that they could not get through the jam!"

Use Common Sense

Therefore, the Automobile club today issues a polite request to automobile owners to use common sense in keeping the way clear for the fire fighting apparatus.

Many serious losses have occurred from fires merely because the fighters were delayed in reaching the scene of operations, it is pointed out. Motorists are requested to draw over to the side of the street or road when they hear the bells of the hose wagons.

Despite the fact that it is against the law to park near a fire plug, many autoists do it at the time of a fire, and law or no law there is little time to quibble about the matter when a house is burning. Watch your step, Mr. Motorist, warns the club.

Maxwell Car With Twenty Passengers Makes Stiff Grade

Automobile owners and others who learned through the newspapers last Sunday morning that a certain light four-cylinder car would attempt to climb the famous Quinero street grade from Sunset boulevard to the summit with a load of 20 passengers at 2 o'clock that afternoon were not a little skeptical. Many declared they must be "shown," and they gathered at that point expecting to see the test result in failure.

A few minutes before 2 o'clock Manager of Sales C. A. Doyle, of the Union Motors, Inc., drove up to the foot of the steep grade in the strictly stock Maxwell that had only recently made the trip into the Yosemite Valley on the Camp Curry Economy Run and which still bore on its windshield the green National Park emblem that Uncle Sam requires to be placed on each car entering the valley.

Doyle was perfectly confident, as were the few members of the sales force whom he brought along with him, for they had seen the Maxwell perform before. The crowd audibly expressed its incredulity. Motorists stopped and asked what was going on. One man was told the Maxwell was about to climb Quintero street.

"Why, I can do that with my car," he said. When he was told, however, that the Maxwell was to carry a load of 20 passengers up the steep hill, he admitted that that was an entirely different proposition.

The spectators were called upon for volunteers, and a load totaling 20, including Doyle, who officiated at the wheel, piled into the car and onto it, hanging on wherever they could obtain standing or sitting room—on the fenders, radiator, everywhere. Doyle started the engine, dropped back five or six feet so his front wheels were just touching the bottom of the slope, and they were off. The car went on and up and up without faltering once. There was no weaving back and forth to lessen the grade; the climb was almost in an exact line straight up the center of Quintero, and not once did there appear any evidence of failure. There was a cheer from the crowd and many started away, but Doyle was not through yet.

He called his passenger crew back to the foot of the hill, loaded them all back on the Maxwell, and five more, making a total of 25 husky passengers. A start was made and again they went straight up to the summit. Bringing the load back down the hill again, Doyle loaded them up once more and climbed up about one-quarter of the way for the benefit of the photographers, and stopped, blocking the rear wheels while the photograph was being taken. When the photographers were through with their work, Doyle started up his motor, put his clutch in low, and pulled right away from the block for several feet, and it seemed as if he could have kept right on going up from a standing start on that grade.

The slope for the 300 feet from Sunset boulevard to the summit of Quintero street is given by the city engineer's office as 24.04 per cent. It is not a paved street, but is graded, the surface, however, being somewhat rough and making the climb still more difficult.

The total mileage of automobiles on the highways of Pennsylvania last year was approximately 4,500,000,000.

Factory Methods In Repairs Win Patrons

"The use of factory methods in repairing electrical equipment is bringing ezcellent success," says E. A. Johnson of the electrical department with the Glendale Battery and Ignition Works, 120 South Maryland avenue. "This enterprise is the exclusive factory agent for the Auto-Lite Electrical System. The following makes of automobiles are equipped with Auto-Lite: Overland, Willys-Knight, Oldsmobile, Columbia, Chevrolet, Peerless and Chalmers.

"The Glendale Battery & Ignition Works carry a complete line of electrical parts for the above mentioned cars at the Maryland avenue address for the convenience of the public.

"Car owners will be glad to learn that there is one authorized Auto-Lite stattion in Glendale for the repair work," says Mr. Johnson. "The equipment for taking care of this class of work is most complete, and skilled mechanics are employed by the company. Each piece of work is done with the utmost care that the best satisfaction may result."

"The USL battery," according to H. D. Hamm of the concern, "is the best battery on the market. Practically no replacements are necessary and there is seldom any trouble."

In the modern hard surfaced roads constructed in the United States, there are sixty-three types of pavement represented.

Cork Will Help

One of the most vexatious greasing problems is to insert grease through a plug-hole larger than the nozzle of the gun. To keep the grease from going everywhere but into the hole, obtain a cork about the size of the largest grease plug on your car. Bore a hole in this cork so that it will slide over the stem of the grease gun, and when you are filling a large hole simply push the cork down to fill the oversize opening. Chemists' rubber corks are ideal for this purpose. A rag or some string packing wound around the stem of the gun can be forced down to act as would the cork.

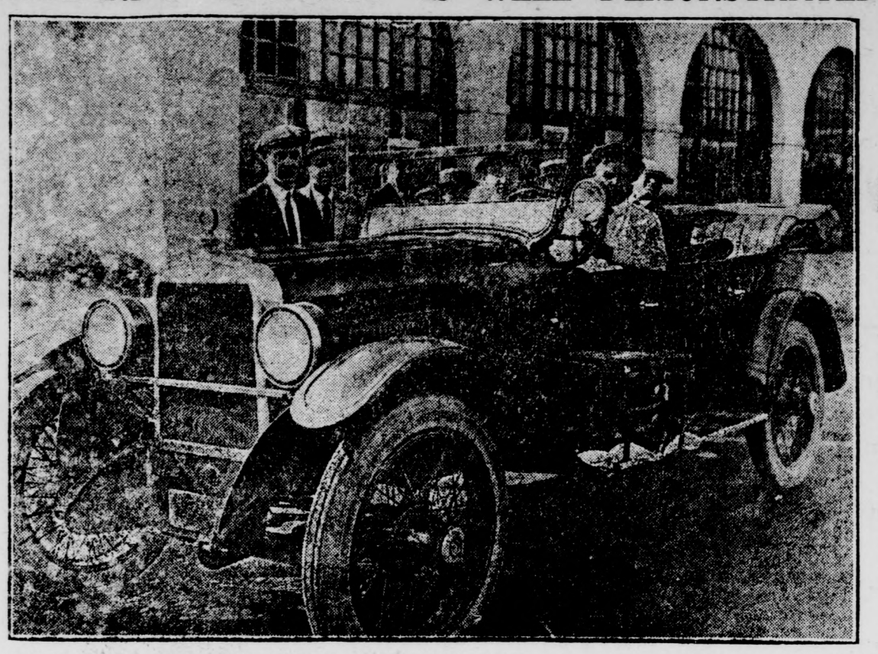
OAKLAND'S ECONOMY IS WELL DEMONSTRATED



OAKLAND SIX GASOLINE MISER AT START OF L. A. TO SAN FRANCISCO RUN
George F. Stephenson, technical representative of the A. A. A., giving final instructions to official observer, Tony Bobritsky, and Harry Neville, driver, of the Oakland 6-44, which averaged 25 miles per gallon on high gear non-stop run.

With gears sealed in high and the ignition switch sealed as well a stock Oakland touring car averaged twenty-five miles on a gallon of gasoline in a non-motor stop economy run from Los Angeles to San Francisco reeling off 459 miles in 18 hours and 18 minutes with one car stop for a tire change.

The purpose of this test was to demonstrate the bona fide economy of the Oakland under as near owner driving conditions as it is possible to obtain. The entire run was made under the personal supervision of George F. Stephenson, technical representative of the A. A. A. and the car was accompanied by Tony Bobritsky acting as official observer.

The result of the test shows figures on gasoline consumption that are credulous as it is possible for anyone to get twenty-five miles on a gallon of gasoline on an ordinary trip with a car like the Oakland 6-44.

"The Oakland walked away with the class and sweepstakes cups in the recent Yosemite economy run, but we do not feel that the wonderful fuel economy marks attained in that official event served any purpose other than a comparison of the cars entered in the run. An owner could not go out and duplicate such mileage on his summer touring," says Max L. Green of Green & McClellan. "So we decided that we would stage another event that would give the owner or prospect the figures on fuel consumption that would mean something to him.

"Twenty-five miles on a gallon of gasoline on a 460-mile trip that takes the car over three mountain passes is remarkable mileage. The gears were sealed in high and the motor was not stopped in all the 18 hours of pulling. This eliminated all trick driving and coasting. It was as near a bona fide owner test as we know how to make it.

"The car consumed no lubricating oil whatever and only one-quarter of one pint of water was used. The former proves again that the Oakland 15,000 mile guarantee against oil pumping means the elimination of all oil troubles and the low water consumption shows the good cooling qualities of the car."

Town Has Single Crossing at Grade

MACON, Mo., July 1.—The town of Macon is almost foolproof against grade crossing accidents. This is not due to any particular carefulness by the city dads, but to the peculiar formation of the land on which the town is built. The Burlington road had to go through the city in a deep cut, to avoid climbing a hill that would have stalled trains. This placed the main streets high above the tracks and necessitated the use of iron bridges. In the east part of town the track runs out on an embankment and the street runs below it. The Wabash passes through town on the backbone of the state, a high fill, and the streets run below. There is only one important street crossing the railroad at a grade. As a consequence, no one can recall a time when a grade crossing accident occurred on the streets of Macon.

Rickenbacker Auto Agency Here Taken By Glendale Motors

One of the big developments in the automobile business in Glendale during the past week was the transfer of the Rickenbacker franchise from William H. Hooper & Company to the Glendale Motor Car Company.

The Rickenbacker has proven to be one of the best selling motor cars ever introduced on the American market. Its selling record has been phenomenal. More Rickenbacker cars have been sold in Southern California since the first of April, when this car was first introduced, than has ever been sold in such a short period of time by any other six-cylinder car in the history of the automobile industry.

"There are three distinct causes for this phenomenal selling record," said Mr. Clark of the Glendale Motor Car Company.

"First, Eddie Rickenbacker's popularity throughout the world as a racing driver and his wonderful record as an American ace of aviation during the world war.

"Second, the fact that Eddie Rickenbacker has had more experience testing out and building various kinds of motors than any other racing driver, and the Rickenbacker motor is the development of his years of experience, which has developed an absolutely balanced motor, entirely free from motor vibration.

"Third, the beauty of line, comfort of riding, and ease of handling, which has been a surprise to every one who has ridden in or driven the car.

"We feel that we are very fortunate in being able to get the Rickenbacker line for this territory," concluded Mr. Clark.

Carl C. Seitter to Direct Bible School

The opening of the second annual daily vacation Bible school to be held under the auspices of the First Methodist Episcopal Church has been set for Wednesday, July 5, and will continue until Tuesday, August 1, the sessions being held each morning from 9 o'clock until 11:45 o'clock. Carl C. Seitter, director of religious education, will be in personal charge of the school, which is open to all the children of Glendale between the ages of 4 and 12 years.

The cost of the school is provided through the regular church budget and no charge is to be made or offering taken. An interesting program of activities has been worked out for each department of the school, including Bible and missionary stories, training in worship, a great variety of handwork and supervised recreation and play. Miss Alice Lookabaugh, 429 West Wilson avenue, will be in charge of the kindergarten group; Miss Mary Rich, 1022 South Boynton street, will care for the primary group; while Mr. Seitter, 210 South Cedar street, will direct the unior activities. Each of these department superintendents will be assisted by other workers. The sessions of the school will be held in the regular department rooms in the First Methodist Church, at the corner of Kenwood street and Wilson avenue.

The first dry goods commission house in America was opened in Philadelphia in 1805, for the sale of cotton yarns and threads manufactured in Rhode Island.

LOS FELIZ WILL BE 100 FEET WIDE AT PARK DOOR

Larger Boulevard Plan of Dickinson and Gillispie at Opening of Tract

The congested traffic conditons on the Los Feliz Boulevard between Griffith Park and Glendale are soon to be relieved by the widening of the boulevard at this point. Dickinson & Gillespie, subdividers, who recently plated a large tract, known as Boulevard Manor are principally responsible for this improvement. Their new tract is located immediately across the boulevard from Griffith park and sufficient acreage will be given by them and surrounding property owners to increase the width of the boulevard from 60 feet to 100 feet.

The popularity of Los Feliz boulevard as a novelty business district is advancing by leaps and bounds, and the Boulevard Manor locality has become a fashionable marketing district for the Hollywood housewives.

A new boulevard project in this same vicinity is another Dickinson & Gillespie dedication in the form of an 80 foot residential boulevard forming the connecting link between Los Feliz and Glendale boulevard and traversing the entire width of the new Boulevard Manor tract. This new thoroughfare follows the contour of the adjoining ground and in addition to providing a much needed lateral artery, it promises to become a scenic residential drive.

Indicative of its name, Boulevard Manor is bordered by still another boulevard. This is Glendale Boulevard on the eastern extremity of the tract. A remarkable feature of this subdivision is that in spite of its enormous expanse of 140 acres, no lot is more than one block from a boulevard thoroughfare. The Pacific Electric line parallels the tract on the Glendale boulevard side and already the new projected subway development has multiplied interest in the speculative qualities of this frontage. Electric car running time to town is now 18 minutes, and it is calculated that the new subway will reduce this time by almost one-half and will make that choice bit of territory between Los Angeles and Glendale closer than any similar residential section in the city.

Many Lots Are Sold

Wednesday of this week witnessed the initial operations of a new $125,000 building development on Boulevard Manor, being conducted by Alva E. Harshman, a local capitalist and builder. This project represents something unique in the way of subdivision development, inasmuch as there will be a gratifying departure from the old staid thumb-and-rule type of quality production. Twenty California, colonial and Spanish bungalows are to be erected in addition to a $25,000 brick store building. The first ten foundations were poured last Thursday and of that number eight have already been sold. The Boulevard Manor tract constitutes one of the largest subdivision developments of Los Angeles, over 700 lots being placed upon the market at one time. Although the selling campaign is but in its infancy, over 500 lots have already been disposed of in a rapid fire manner, which conclusively proves the continued popularity of the Los Angeles-Glendale territory.

Sales Manager F. B. Burns reports a surprising minority of sales to non-residents of California. All but twelve of the 500 lots in this tract have been purchased by residents of Los Angeles or the surrounding communities and it is gratifying to see that some steps are being taken to reduce the large majority of renters existing in the city today.

NEW INN OFFERING CHICKEN DINNER AT OPENING

Quaint Eating Place to Have Formal Gathering First Time on Sunday

Sunday marks the formal opening of Montgomery's Country Inn, a quaint eating place reminiscent of the old rural taverns so lovingly described in Washington Irving's works, at 4050 Tropico boulevard, formerly known as Los Feliz road, three blocks west of the Southern Pacific tracks.

The opening will be signalized by a chicken dinner, to be served country style. The proprietors believe that in offering fresh farm food, artistic and exotic surroundings, comfortable chairs and tables, and willing service by pleasant girls, that they will fill a real need.

"Southern California has been waiting for a place like this—a unique country inn, where one can go with his mother, family and friends for the enjoyment of appetizing food," said Lawrence L. Frank, president of the Montgomery Food Company, operating the inn, and also head of the Van de Kamp Holland Dutch Bakers. "Our appeal is primarily to persons of refinement. There will be no dancing or 'entertainment.' We know that the majority of the people want fresh and wholesome food, well prepared, and a place that is delightfully different from what they see day in and day out.

Ideal Location

"Our location is ideal. It is only a short ride from the downtown of Glendale, yet it is in a section that is quiet and country-like."

Light lunches and refreshment are served in one section of the inn building, while an adjoining building is levoted to fresh fruit and vegetables.

The inn is named for J. F. Montgomery, vice president and treasurer, whose Norman ancestors operated a similar place in the old country. Mr. Walter Van de Kamp is secretary of the company.

'Out of the Dust,' Story of Love and Action at T. D. L.

Every home has or now contains a picture painted by the famous Frederic Remington. His pictures were those of the red-blooded Americans. Upon looking at one of these pictures you are thrilled. With his magic brush he painted the strong characters of our real men, the pioneers of the west. If his paintings could have only come to life they would tell the same story that "Out of the Dust" is now telling for the last time today at the T. D. & L. theatre. This is said to be the greatest accomplishment of the motion picture screen as it was inspired by one of the Remington's works. It is a story of action and beauty with a love theme inter-woven so as to appeal to all theatre goers.

For only one day, Sunday, Charles Ray holds forth as the main attraction at the T. D. & L. theatre in his latest and best picture, "The Barnstormer." You will want to see him, of course.

It is estimated that in a year 600,000,000 tons of coal are wasted through incomplete combustion of the fuel and in heating and lighting unoccupied rooms and needless places.

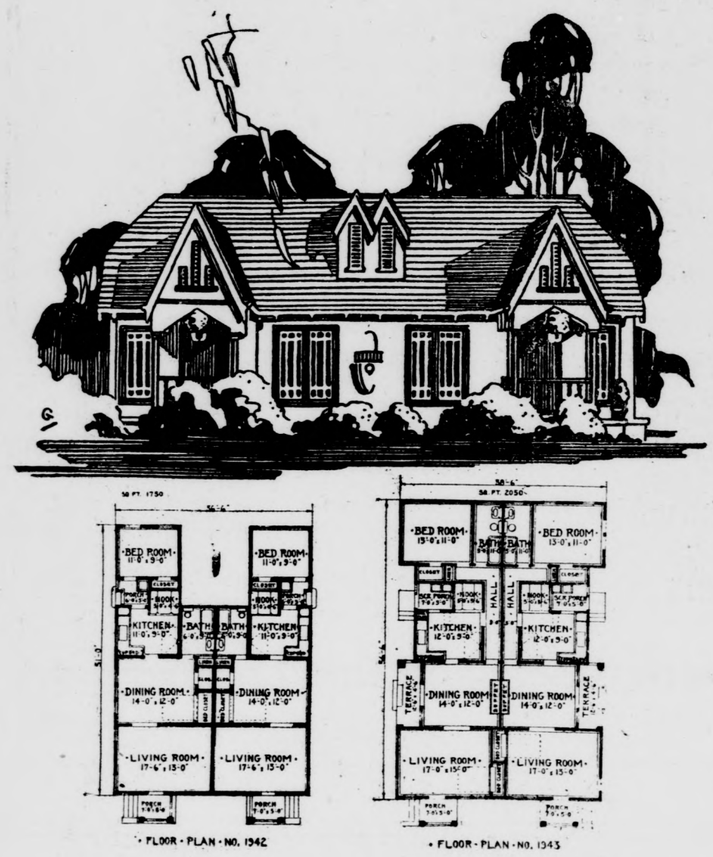
Two in One-Home Owner & Landlord

How often you have envied your landlord as he pried you loose from your rent money! How you have wished you could step into his class! But, you always concluded with a sigh, you didn't even own your own home—and how could you become a landlord? Let us tell you how you can jump into the home owner and landlord classes at one time.



No. 1942

Possibly you prefer the bedroom to be set off, with light and air around three sides. If so, take No. 1942 as a model. You also have a built-in bed in the dining room for accommodating the occasional house guest or the friends who drops in and is persuaded to stay over night. All the usual conveniences are included in this home, and, in addition, see the cunning little breakfast nook just off the kitchen and porch.

You will readily notice one characteristic—the many closets and cupboards. Quite different from houses "knocked together" to sell, aren't they?

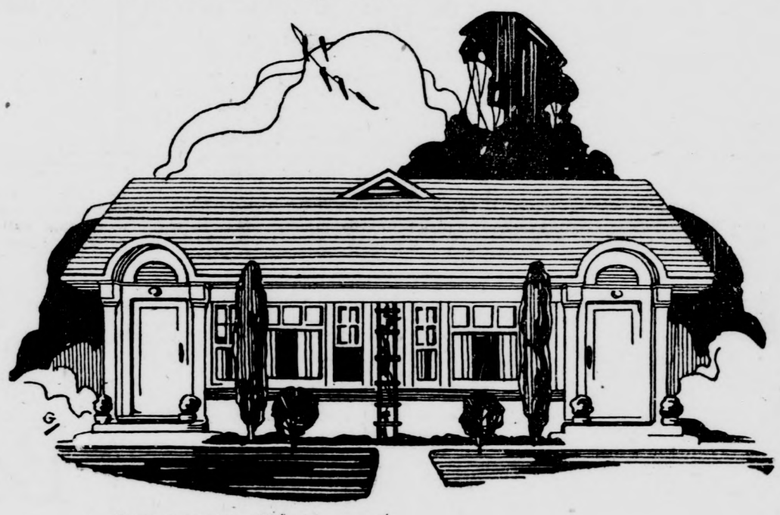
Or, if you like more room and don't care for the extra bed in the dining room, and the long hall leading past the kitchen and breakfast nook out to the bedroom.

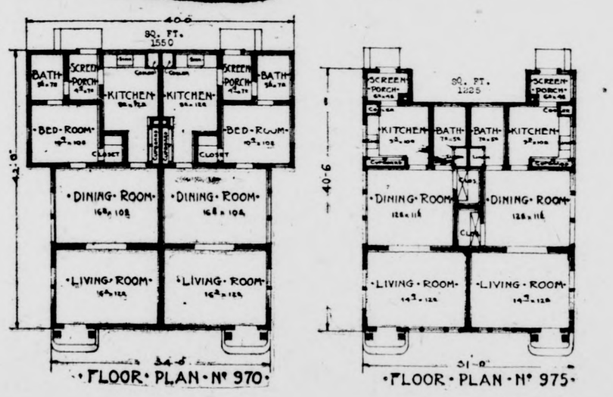
This plan, while entirely different from No. 970, is equally attractive, and here also you can be home owner and landlord.

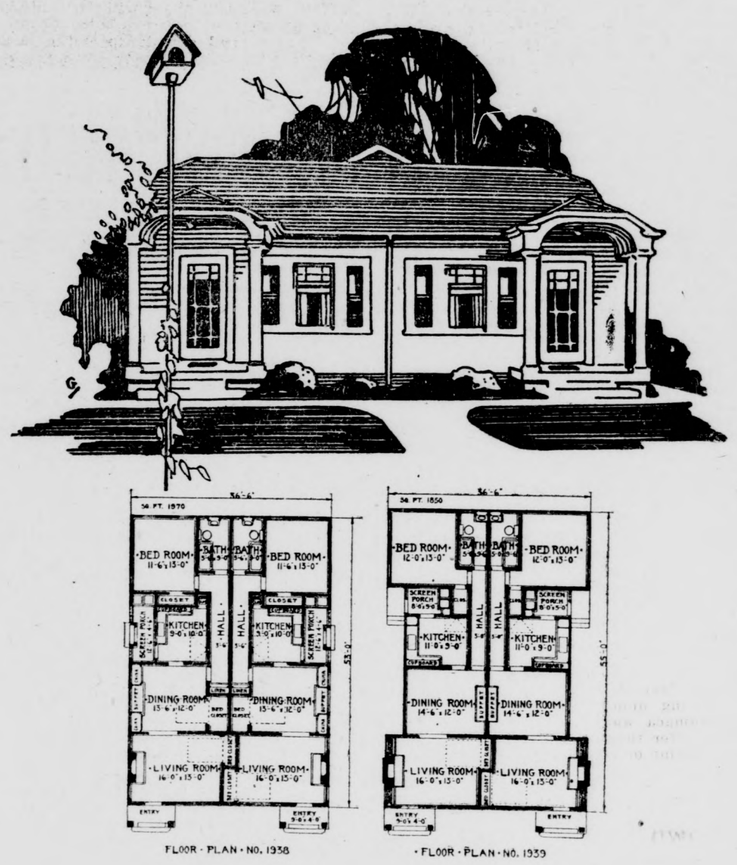
No. 970

Now here is a little double home that would thoroughly delight the wife and attract any small family looking for the last word in convenience. Each apartment has one bedroom but built-in beds could be put in the living room, if desired, and so accommodate one or two more.

Now, let's look at the interior. Passing a tall tree and some shrubbery, we enter the living room and from thence by folding doors into the dining room. You will notice the large window space in the one and also that the other has an entire side devoted to large glass panes. In fact, the whole house is designed to afford plenty of light. From the dining room you step into the bathroom, with its linen closet, or into the kitchen, with built-in cupboard, sink and cooler. This opens out onto a screen porch. Don't you admire the architecture, the convenience and, above all, the idea of living at home and getting an income from rent as well? Fact is, the rental of one side will almost carry the cost of the whole investment, after you once own your lot. Plan No. 975 is a modification which can be built more cheaply, putting the bed, either movable or built-in, in the living room.







No. 1938

Very well, here you are for that growing family. One bedroom, with built-in beds in both living and dining rooms. The latter has a buffet and china closet extending the whole length of the room, while just outside the door in the hall is the linen closet.

On the outside of the kitchen is the screen porch, which, you will notice is a feature shown on all of these plans. There is absolutely no need in these days to have your home open to flies and the unscreened porch is a great gathering place for the household pests. Screened porches keep 'em out.

The bedroom at the rear is fully equipped with large closet, while the bathroom is but a few steps away at the end of the hall. It takes no great imagination to hear the good wife fairly "squeal" with delight at the thought of being mistress of such a home as any one of these.

And, honestly, now—doesn't the idea of the monthly rent check for the other side of the house cause a pleasant sensation in your own mind, as you think of all the years you have been paying out money regularly to "the other fellow"?

Here are the names of some enterprising firms and individuals in your city who are so interested in you that they are paying good money to put this page before you. They advise you to make the attempt at home owning and "landlording" at once. They have also retained the services of competent home designers who will gladly give you valuable advice in making your plans. Address inquiries to "Home Building Editor," care this paper.

ANOTHER ASSAULT BY IRISH FREE STATE TROOPS

Run Up White Flag After Savage Attack; De Valera Still at Liberty

By DANIEL O'CONNELL
For International News Service.

DUBLIN, July 1.—Heavy fighting broke out this morning in Capel street when Irish free state troops began a storm assault against a stronghold of the republican irregulars.

After a savage attack the republicans ran up the white flag. Fifteen defenders were captured. Earlier in the day a lull had descended upon the city and the heavy firing of the past three days died down to sniping and an occasional burst of machine gun fire.

Eamonn de Valera was the only republican chieftain of importance at liberty today. De Valera is in command of a detachment of irregulars who occupied and fortified the Gresham hotel.

While the regulars have captured Roderick O'Connor, commander in chief of the rebels, and have dislodged the rebels from the ruins of the Four Courts building, there are still squads of irregulars holding buildings in various parts of the city.

Machine Guns Ready

Rebel machine guns still command most of O'Connell street. The irregulars have occupied Dranville and Hamman hotels, mounting machine guns on the roofs. The rebels had cut doors through the walls of the houses in O'Connell street between Parnell monument and Marlboro street, transforming the buildings into one continuous blockhouse.

At 7 o'clock this morning a number of armored cars drew up before De Valera's stronghold but did not open fire.

Richard Mulcahy, minister of defense in the Irish provisional government, issued another statement to the regulars today declaring that the government is going to see the campaign to a successful conclusion.

General O'Duffy, chief of staff of the free state army, has issued a warning that looters will be shot on sight.

Civil War Spreads

DUBLIN, July 1. — Noon. — There has been a great and spectacular spread of Irish civil war, with fighting in progress in many parts of the Irish free state.

Eamonn de Valera claimed that the free staters were under attack by republican irregulars at Listowell, Foynes, Skibbereen, Abbeyfeale, Newcastle, West Broadford, Holling and Charlesville.

Irregulars blew up a bridge south of Drogheda, cutting rail traffic between Belfast and the south.

Free state troops are active in a number of counties especially Donegal, rounding up and arresting republicans.

There was another outbreak of fighting here after a brief lull. The rebels tried to bomb another motor car in Talbot street, but were driven off.

The rebel stronghold in Capel street was rushed and 50 men captured by free staters.

The rebels now hold the general postoffice building in Dublin. It is believed the big attack will be made against this position.

The Sport Crucible

By Davis J. Walsh
International News Service Sports Editor

NEW YORK, July 1.—Word of mouth acceptance of the Wills' challenge by Dan Kettrick, speaking for Jack Dempsey, means that this biggest of all sport extravaganzas will be signed, sealed and delivered precisely one year before it can possibly take place. It means that Dempsey and Kearns have decided to play along with the wordy edicts of the New York state athletic commission, without, however, any intention of letting that body push them headlong into an early date.

Tex Rickard reiterated today that he would not be able to stage such a match before next summer. That may be tantamount to saying that the bout will not take place before that time. Rickard and Kearns are a hand-in-glove proposition.

Another fact that would seem to influence a 1922 date for the match is the tendency to eat regularly displayed by Dempsey since early childhood. If he should meet Wills on Labor day and knock the black for a sequence of ebony dominoes, there will be more matches for Dempsey. He will then have cleaned the field.

If Wills is shelved until next summer, the champion can take on Brennan, Greb, Willard and others under the guise of preparatory matches and the exchequer will be replenished accordingly.

The 1923 days, therefore, is almost inevitable. So is the fact that the bout will take place in New York. Governor Miller, interviewed on the subject, has declared himself in favor of the affair, the boxing commission has countenanced both the challenge and acceptance and nothing remains but for some promoter to say it in greenbacks.

SPORTS CHATTER

During the past week's series O'Connell of the Seals lost the lead in the individual batting averages. Kelly also of the Seals with .387 and Smith of Vernon both passed O'Connell, who stands third in the list up to the close of last week's series, the latter having .383 per cent while Smith is just two points better.

Ponder of Los Angeles and Mitchell of San Francisco are tied in the lead of the pitching department with 10 victories and two losses apiece for a percentage of .833. Ponder has been responsible for 27 runs while Mitchell has 30 against him.

Arlett of Oakland has won fourteen games, this being the largest number of victories to date in the league, but he has lost eight games and shows an average of 636 with 59 runs responsible for.

The leaders in the other departments of the batting averaging to date are:

Most runs scored, 75, Schick, S. L.

Most base hits, 114, O'Connoll, S. F.

Most two-baggers, 28, Poole, Portland.

Most triples, 11, Hawks, Vernon.

Most home runs, 13, Griggs, L. A.; Schick, S. L.

Most sacrifice hits, 27, McCann, Portland.

Most stolen bases, 23, Cooper, Oakland.

San Francisco Seals have been on the rampage since the ninth series opened on May 30. In the four series from that date to last Sunday, San Francisco has won 23 games and lost six. Against the Oaks, San Francisco won seven and lost one and the next week they won five and lost two to Los Angeles. Those successes they followed up with another five victories and two losses against Portland and last week the Sacramento Senators felt the sting of the Seals attack, the Sacramentians only winning one game of the series to six annexed by the Seals.

The series against Sacramento found Kamm of the Seals come out of his batting slump. He headed the batters of the series with .583 and his work was such that he raised his season's average from .318 of the previous week to .347 for his quota for the season so far played.

Nine of the Seals in the past series, including three pitchers, batted .333 or better, while six of the Sacramento men did the same thing, Pearce leading the Sacramento men for the series with .429 for the seven games.

The WORLD OVER

Commendation of the recent action of the National league in voting a pension to the old veteran baseball player, Cal A. McVey, has turned to disappointment at the announcement that the sum awarded him amounts to only $50 a month. The general opinion expressed is that the amount is a niggardly one for so rich an organization, particularly in view of the fact that McVey is so crippled by rheumatism that he is in no condition to undertake any work.

The fifty dollars a month given him does not accomplish the main object it was hoped for, namely, that of allowing McVey to give up work. It is not sufficient to allow him to live without continuing his daily toil. Of course it is a help, and McVey can get a short, or part-day job to make up the deficit, but it entails just that amount of suffering which it was hoped would be obviated when the league officials announced they would provide for him. They have only half done what they were expected to do, and the reaction on the part of the baseball fans is not favorable to them. It is a case of a miss being as bad as a mile.

The actions of Babe Ruth since the close of the 1921 baseball season has been such that general disgust for him among the fans has taken the place of the adulation which formerly was accorded to him. From all appearances it would seem that success has turned his head, and he has come to consider himself of more importance than the national game itself.

It is evident that the discliplinary measures taken by Judge Landis, when he suspended Ruth from the game for barnstorming against orders, has fallen on barren ground. Intellectually, Ruth is little more than a baby, and this probably is the reason. That his mentality is practically a negligible quantity is best shown by the trend of his acts. When Hildebrand made a decision which displeased the former home-run hitter (he isn't hitting 'em this year) Ruth threw dirt in the official's face. His recent uprising against the umpire took the form of calling the arbiter by that name which Owen Wister's hero in The Virginian demanded at the point of a gun, be accompanied with a smile.

The saying of a fan recently that "you can't make a silk purse out of a sow's ear" in connection with Ruth seems to be the shoe that fits the Ruth foot. Whatever Ruth may have been in the past, it is high time to call a halt and, if necessary, rule him out of organized baseball for all time. Ruth has been the hero of the small boy for several years. Millions of them will be affected for evil if Ruth is allowed to go on his present way.

TWO IN ONE---Owner and Landlord

The average landlord of today began with building one house—and then another—and so on... But he had money, you say... Sometimes he had, but often he started somewhat as we suggest there—by building a home which he could live in, and also large enough to rent a part of it.

Why not build a double home and rent one apartment while you enjoy all the comforts of the other? We can show you plans for a number of ideal structures of this character, ranging from those for couples to homes which will accommodate large families.

When you own your lot the building of the home is an easy matter. Consult our Photographic Plan and Building Service Department, which costs you nothing. Then when you decide what you want, we can let you have the best materials at the lowest prices consistent with their value.

You've been wanting to build that home for years, perhaps. You will never have a better chance than now to get into the home-owning and landlord classes at a single step. We are ready to serve you. Let us advise with you at once.

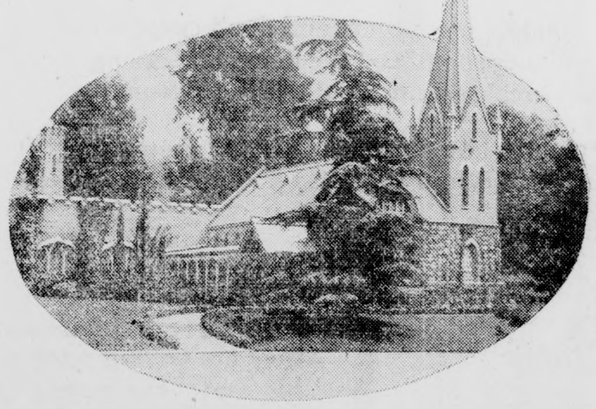
Beautiful Forest Lawn
"Among the Hills"



Flowers Bloom the Year Around

The shrubbery is forever green under the Southern California skies at Forest Lawn. The green hills stand as sentinels sheltering this beloved spot from the chill northwest winds and from the noise and bustle of the work-a-day world.

The world over can offer no more attractive final resting place.

Everything that art, science and loving care can devise has been planned for different forms of burial—be it earth burial, mausoleum crypt, cremation, columbarium niche or private vault.

Every department of Forest Lawn is under one management and operated under one overhead expense—a decided economy, by which every purchaser is benefited.

LOCAL TEAM AND HERALD'S SQUAD TO CONTEST

First Game on Repaired Grounds to Be Played Sunday Afternoon

The Glendale Merchants clash at 3 o'clock Sunday afternoon with the Los Angeles Evening Herald at the newly-repaired field at Park and San Fernando road. The bleachers have been enlarged and the grounds scraped and rolled, and are now ready for a fast game of baseball.

"Now maybe Acosta can get that home run," said a kid as he saw the heavy street roller finishing up the grounds. And the renovated diamond certainly does offer a clean path to a base runner. Sunday's game, thinks Manager John A. Cobb, should be faster than usual because of the big improvements made in the grounds during the past week.

The Sunday lineup for the Glendale Merchants will be: Wilson, ss; Harris, cf; Cummings, 2b; Acosta, 3b; Cobb, 1b; King, c; Kerns, rf; Aggeson, lf; Johnson, p.

Tagging All Bases

The Browns stepped out to another half-length lead in the American league race by giving Coveleskie and the Indians a painstaking beating, 10 to 2.

Just to prove that the chains of habit are not easily severed, the Athletics sank gracefully below sea level before losing the final game of the series to the Red Sox, 4 to 1.

Playing their final game under the management of George Gibson, the Pirates finished a unanimous second to the Cards, 6 to 2.

Bill McKechnie Is New Pirate Leader

PITTSBURG, July 1.—When the Pittsburg Pirates take the field this afternoon for the game with St. Louis, a new skipper will be at the helm of the Buccaneer craft. Bill McKechnie, big league veteran, will replace Geo. Gibson as manager of the club.

Gibson resigned after yesterday's game. The fact that the team has been unable to play winning ball consistenely during the present season is believed to have caused Gibson to determine to quit.

McKechnie has been with the club this year as coach. Gibson will return to his farm in Canada. He is the first big league manager to leave his club this year.

Charley White Is Shaded by Hammer

CHICAGO, July 1.—Charley White's claims to lightweight supremacy in Chicago and vicinity are somewhat tarnished today as the result of his bombardment at Aurora last night with Ever Hammer. A majority of the critics gave Hammer a shade the better of the bout because of a clean knock down in the ninth round. Others thought White entitled to the decision because of the showing in earlier rounds.

Elizabeth Ryan Is Once More Winner

WIMBLEDON, Eng., July 1.—Miss Elizabeth Ryan, the Californian, continued her victorious march today in the all-comers' single tennis championship for women by disposing of Miss Harvey in straight sets, 6-3, 6-3.

ROMANCE PICTURE AND VAUDEVILLE AT GLENDALE

Film Feature to Prove of Interest; Songs, Dancing Clever Novelties

Women were puzzles to Reggie. He couldn't understand why Sylvia loved this Spanish jail-bird.

But to her, Pedro was a Spanish song bird, the romance king, and he had such a wonderful mustache. Then this slam-bang Yank got busy in "Rogues of Romance" at the Glendale theatre today.

The Maderia sisters, Orpheum Circuit stars, presenting a delightfully clever offering of "songs, talk and dancing," will be the feature act on the big new vaudeville bill today. These two girls are exceptionally talented and their material is the sort that constantly wins them new admirers.

Dell, Beattie and Dell entitle their contribution "Contesting Gravitation." This is a genuine novelty. Richards and Coots have a charming character comedy singing and talking offering that is a gem of its kind. Glen Wall is billed as presenting "Thin Lines" which he promises contains "bits of everything." It is an exceptionally quaint act.

May McAvoy, the Realart star, will be seen here Sunday at the Glendale theatre in "A Homespun Vamp," a Hector Turnbull story in which she plays the role of a little Scotch girl who is the drudge for two tight-fisted uncles. How she escapes their petty tyranny and wins happiness makes a delightful story.

Topics, News and other films complete the bill.

CLAIMS SELF-DEFENSE

OREGON CITY, Ore., July 1.—Testifying in his own behalf in circuit court here, Russell Hecker, charged with the murder of Frank Bowker, the night of April 16, confessed the slaying, claiming he shot in self-defense.

Hecker testified that Bowker and he had quarreled while riding to a liquor cache, Bowker having planned to buy a large quantity of liquor. At the height of the argument Bowker fired at him with a revolver, that he knocked the weapon upward, and then fired in self-defense at Bowker, killing him.

Sixty cents is the estimated cost of stopping an ordinary freight train and again getting it under way at its average speed, 25 miles an hour.

AN ELECTROLYTIC CONDENSER

When alternating current supply is used for vacuum tube transmitters a filter circuit becomes necessary to reduce or, if possible, eliminate the disagreeable hum of the pulsating direct current. Paper condensers can be used for the purpose of smoothing out voltage pulsations. Mica dielectric is paper, but an electrolytic condenser seems to be even better suited because it cannot be permanently punctured. Abnormal voltages can be applied without fear of breakdown, within limits higher than ordinarily allowable.

The electrolytic condenser illustrated has a capacity of 38 microfarads and measures but 4½ inches by 3¼ inches. Oscillographs, taken while using such a condenser with an efficient tube rectifier, show that it can be admirably used in conjunction with suitable choke coils to smooth out the ripples and allow voice projection quite free from distortion.

The condenser has an aluminum and a lead plate immersed in an alkaline electrolyte. The whole is contained in a very neat looking unit. Binding posts have the polarity plainly marked on them so that no mistake can be made in making connections in a direct current circuit. The condenser cannot be used in an alternating current circuit. Various capacities may, of course, be secured by connecting a number of units in series, parallel or series-parallel. A wooden rack may be secured for mounting the battery of condensers in this manner. If the direct current voltage is excessively high two or more condensers may be connected in series.

There is practically no operating cost, as the electrolyte does not have to be replaced unless accidentally spilled or adulterated. Pure distilled water can be added from time to time to make up for the loss by evaporation.

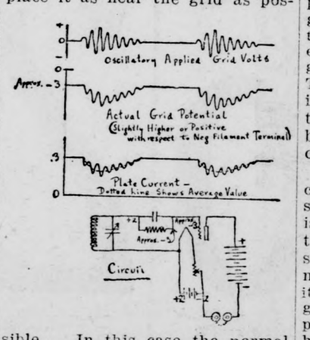
DETECTION WITH GRID CONDENSER

When a grid condenser is connected in series with the tuned circuit and filament terminal it is customary and advisable to place it as near the grid as possible. In this case the normal potential of the grid will depend upon the arrangement of the circuit. Since, for reasons to be explained, a grid leak resistance is normally shunted across the grid condenser this will also have an effect upon the normal grid potential. Let us consider the arrangement shown in the drawing. The grid is connected to the positive end of the filament through the grid leak resistance, and a positive potential is applied to the grid. The grid is slightly positive with respect to the negative end of the filament, and a small grid current will therefore flow. There is also a plate current flowing because the plate is connected to the positive terminal of the battery. This is the normal plate current.



Now, suppose that the receiver circuits are tuned to an incoming signal and an oscillating potential is applied to the grid through the grid condenser and leak resistance. When the applied (signal) voltage charges the grid positively the actual potential of the grid rises from its normal small positive value to increasingly higher values until the peak of the applied potential is reached. During this time the plate current may increase very slightly, but may actually decrease because electrons are being attracted to the grid and trapped there, since they cannot flow through the condenser nor to any extent through the very high resistance. After the peak of applied voltage is passed and it decreases to zero, the negative charges remain on the grid and the grid becomes negative with respect to the negative end of the the filament. When the applied voltage charges the grid negative no grid current flows, but the plate current decreases still further. After the peak of the applied negative voltage is passed the grid potential rises to a lower negative value, and, with it, the plate current. At the end of the cycle, however, the grid is probably negative with respect to the filament, so that the plate current does not come back to its former value. During successive oscillations of applied voltage the grid becomes increasingly negative with respect to the filament until a time is reached when the charge can leak through the high grid leak resistance. After this time the grid gradually becomes less and less negative with increasing leakage until, at the end of the wave train, the grid has assumed its original potential with respect to the filament. During this time the plate current is pulsating and its average value is first decreasing and then increasing until at the end of the wave train the plate current is again normal. In the duration of one wave train there is then a decrease and an increase of average plate current below and back to normal value—one pulse of average plate current will then take place for each wave train, and the telephone receiver diaphragms are vibrated in step with the pulse frequency.

Mexican Bandits In New Attack on American Oil Co.

WASHINGTON, July 1.—Mexican banditry against American oil camps in the Tampico district is being extended, Consul Shaw at Tampico officially advised the state department today.

Shaw reported the Pennsylvania-Mexican Oil company, an American concern near Tuxpam, had notified him that the rebel leader, General Tarraga, had swooped down on the company camp at Palo and demanded 1,000 pesos by today. Details are lacking, Shaw reported.

BILL FOR 45 CENTS

LOS ANGELES, July 1.—When Henry Morris arrived here from San Francisco to face a charge of passing a worthless check for $226 and made a twenty-four-hour late appearance before Justice Brown, his honor presented him with a bill for 45 cents. This was the sum paid by Justice Brown on a telegram sent to him collect by the defendant in the bad check case as notification that he would be a day late in court.

CHRISTIAN SCIENCE LECTURE TOPIC LAST NIGHT

Mrs. Blanche K. Corby of Los Angeles Speaks at Glendale Church

Mrs. Blanche K. Corby, C. S. B., of Los Angeles, member of the board of lectureship of the mother church, the First Church of Christ, Scientist, in Boston, Mass., gave a lecture on the subject of Christian Science in the Glendale church, Maryland and California, last night. The lecturer was introduced by Arthur P. Care, first reader. Following is a brief resume:

"'The time for thinkers has come,' writes Mrs. Eddy in the preface of her great work, 'Science and Health with Key to the Scriptures.' In the recorded history of man, there has never been such intense thinking on things spiritual and religious as there is today. Advanced thinkers are realizing that the world can never be rebuilt from the old basis of materiality and continue in a state anything short of anarchy; and that a true constructive league can be founded only upon the basis of spiritual regeneration.

"It is generally considered that spirituality is a supernatural, vague, or indefinite consideration of being which cannot be made practical. Christian Science removes spirituality from the realm of the supernatural and impractical and reveals it as a normal condition. Spirituality is right thinking, and can be applied in all of the detail and routine of every day life. Christian Science has taught us that we can think rightly about all that we have to do. The remedy for all evil lies in the power of right thought; there is nothing that can be substituted for it. Our highest concept of everything is the best that we can express; therefore the more spiritual the thinking, the more is expressed of health, harmony, and better environment.

Health and Peace

"Everyone yearns for health, peace, and life in abundance. Throughout the world not one man can be found who will say that he does not want these things. Christian Science can bestow them, not in the way or after the manner of the world, but by taking away the sins of the world through the spiritualization of thought. Christian Science does not require the giving up of anything that is good and true. It is only the false gods of material beliefs that must be gotten rid of in order to gain that which is altogether lovely. Christian Science teaches that only as we know God can we possess and express the things most desirable.

"Jesus announced that he came to destroy the works of the devil and to do his father's will. His professed followers cannot question that he came to do that which was lawful and right. In the destruction of all evil he proved that disease as well as sin is not in accord with the law of God, but is the work of the devil or one evil. He used no material means, he ascribed no credit to himself, but always gave God the glory. Jesus did not limit the healing to his day alone, when he instructed his followers to go out into the world to preach the gospel to every nation and to heal the sick. Added to this was his admonition to those who believe on him to do greater works than he had done, not greater in quality but in quantity.

Effectual Prayer

"For centuries the world has stumbled on without a definite understanding of what constitutes true prayer. Under great stress of suffering or disaster there is sometimes a desire to know how to pray, but in spite of tears and importunate yearnings, much of the prayer of the world is never answered. In James we read, "Ye ask, and receive not, because ye ask amiss." (James 4:3.)

"Mrs. Eddy teaches that the only effectual prayer is the prayer of Jesus—the recognition of the allness of God and the availability of that allness for every human need. True prayer is not a supplication through blind faith, in other words, asking God to answer prayer; it is utilizing and making practical the goodness of God. True prayer brings thought into accord with divine Mind and declares and demonstrates the spiritual facts of being."

Club Building Fund To Benefit by Sales

Another means of securing money for the building fund of the Tuesday Afternoon Club has been devised by the members of the ways and means committee, of which Mrs. A. H. Montgomery is chairman, in connection with the series of forty symphony concerts to be given at the Hollywood bowl this summer, beginning July 11. The club is to receive 20 per cent on all tickets sold by its members, or 25 per cent if more than 100 tickets are sold. Parties of four will be admitted on the same tickets instead of being limited to one person.

Owing to the illness of Mrs. Montgomery's small son, Mrs. E. Cleophas, 337 North Central avenue, will have charge of the tickets, which can also be secured at Loomis-Shuck Music Co., Glendale Music Co., or Chamber of Commerce.

RAILWAY SHOPMEN OUT ON STRIKE; TRAIN RUNS

About 400,000 Men Quit Work; Others to Join, It Is Expected

CHICAGO, July 1.—The strike of members of the shop crafts union on a majority of the railroads of the United States went into effect at 10 o'clock today in accordance with authorization given by the executives of the union.

Only two or three minor brushes took place. Train service was not interrupted in any part of the country, according to available reports.

CHICAGO, July 1.—Wage cuts approximating $134,000,000 and affecting more than one million railway workers went into effect on all railroads of the United States today by order of the United States railway labor board.

In protest against the wage cuts and against certain practices charged against the managements of the railroads, approximately 400,000 railway shopmen throughout the country were to go on strike at 10 o'clock today.

Serious interruption of freight and passenger traffic was not anticipated as the train service unions are not involved in the strike movement. The strikers come almost entirely from the ranks of repair shop employes.

Expected to Join

Six unions of the sixteen so-called "standard" unions that comprise the railway employes' department of the American Federation of Labor, are expected to join in the strike movement. These are:

International Association of Machinists, 60,000 members.

International Brotherhood of Boilermakers, Iron Shipbuilders and Helpers of America, 18,000 members.

International Brotherhood of Blacksmiths, Drop Forgers and Helpers of America, 10,000 members.

Amalgamated Sheet Metal Workers, International Alliance, 11,000 members.

International Brotherhood of Electrical Workers, 12,000 members.

Brotherhood of Railway Carmen of America, 160,000 members.

Affiliated with these unions are approximately 130,000 helpers and apprentices not listed in the above tabulation, making the total number of men involved slightly more than 400,000.

Ends All Hope

These shop crafts unions which are to go on strike this morning are led by B. M. Jewell, head of the Railway Employes' department of the American Federation of Labor. Jewell ended all hope of averting the strike when he refused to attend a conference of the United States railway labor board, the railway executives and union chiefs at the labor board offices here. His defiance of the board's summons to attend was joined in by members of the executive committee of the shop crafts union.

Jewell's whereabouts today were somewhat of a mystery. He was variously reported to have left Chicago and to be in conference with his advisers in a downtown hotel. It was certain that he was making no move to avert the walkout sanctioned for today by the shop crafts' executives.

Ben W. Hooper, chairman of the labor board, which was blocked yesterday in its attempt to avert the strike by the refusal of the shop crafts unions to attend, awaited word today from Washington as to the next move of the government.

E. E. Grable, international president of the Brotherhood of Railway Maintenance of Way Men, sent orders to his men early today to remain at their posts until further word is received from him. He asserted the labor board yesterday that strike orders for his organization would be held in abeyance until July 3 or later.

All Trains Continue

Executives of many of the leading railroads declared today that so far as the general public is concerned, it will "hardly know that a strike is on." The railroads apparently have no fear of a tie-up and all trains continued to operate as usual. The rail executives indicated that they would attempt to keep their equipment in repair with such forces as they are able to recruit. The general view of the situation seemed to be that the equipment is in condition to withstand a strike of thirty to sixty days before traffic would be seriously hampered.

As the strike got under way reports were circulated there that A. O. Wharton, labor representative on the labor board, had decided to resign. Wharton formerly was president of the shop crafts' union. No official statement regarding his position has been made but he is known to have been out of sympathy with the recent decisions of the board.

Nettie B. Campbell Gives Piano Recital

Lois Reed, Helen Jessen and Kenneth McCombs were presented in a piano recital last night by Miss Nettie B. Campbell at her home, 130 North Everett street. Adding to the charm of the program, a group of songs were sung by Mrs. DeCamp of North Jackson street, followed by two piano solos by Miss Campbell. After the program refreshments were served and a social time enjoyed.

COURT PROHIBITS ALL PICKETING BY STRIKERS

No Interference With Men Who Desire to Work In Shops, Order

TOPEKA, Kan., July 1. — The Kansas industrial court today issued an edict prohibiting the picketing of railroad shops where men have gone on strike in Kansas. The order stated that there must be no interference with men who desire to work in shops affected by the strike.

By WEBSTER K. NOLAN
For International News Service.

WASHINGTON, July 1.—In a kindly-worded speech today to the leaders of the coal miners and representatives of the operators, President Harding admonished them to seek a prompt solution of the present strike and conveyed to them the delicately word warning them that if they failed the government would be compelled to administer the industry for the common good of the American people.

President Harding did not mention federal control by name. He adopted the more discreet way of putting it, but throughout the president's brief speech to the warring factions it was made clear that the administration is keeping "a steel hand in a velvet glove," and that if the miners and operators cannot get together then the government is going to protect the consuming public.

Punch Comes Near End

The "kick" in the speech was near the end:

"You are admonished to arrive at such understanding with measureable promptness, among yourselves. If the adjustment cannot be reached by you alone, the government will be available at your joint call. We wish you who best know the way to solution to reach it among yourselves, in a manner to command the sanction of the people.

"Failing in that, the representatives of the American people will be called to the task.

"Operations ought to be resumed," the president said. "With diminishing fuel supplies, menacing shortage as we turn to winter's approach, with the unemployment visiting its hardships on idle miners, it would seem to be common sense to find acceptable grounds on which to resume activities, with commitment to achieve the righteous adjustments which may well be expedited into common sense.

First Skirmish Occurs

WASHINGTON, July 1. — The first skirmish between railroad workers and special police in the strike of the shop crafts union occurred near Washington.

No one was injured but the police had a busy hour preventing a near riot at the Ivy City roundhouse between the workers and a squad of special policemen employed by the Baltimore & Ohio railroad late last night.

The specials arrived at the roundhouse with cots and bedding. The workers decided they looked like "scabs" and ordered them to clear out. While the special police were looking for the city police to protect them the strikers hooted them.

RESERVES ORDERED OUT

CHICAGO, July 1.—One word of disorders in connection with the railroad strike came in a report to police headquarters here that several hundred Mexicans in a concentration camp on the Rock Island lines at Blue Island, in the southern section of the city, were engaged in a riot with the strikers. Early reports to the police gave few details. Reserves were immediately ordered out to quell the disturbances.

Of the 400,000 members of the shop craft unions affected by the strike order, approximately 100,000 are in the Chicago district. These men were going out in large numbers today.

Although members of the Brotherhood of Maintenance of Way Employes received orders today from E. C. Grable, president, not to go on strike, word reached Grable today that groups of maintenance of way men throughout the country were indulging in an unauthorized walkout. Grable yesterday promised the United States railway labor board that strike orders for his organization would be held in abeyance until July 3 or later. In accordance with this pledge, he sent out telegrams to district representatives ordering all those who walked out to return to work.

The whereabouts of the leaders of the shops crafts unions remained a mystery today. B. M. Jewell, president of the railway employes department of the American Federation of Labor, who evaded process servers of the labor board yesterday, was still missing today. No word of his plan or whereabouts reached headquarters of the unions or the labor board.

The labor board, after yesterday's hearing, was continuing with routine matters today and awaiting word from Washington as to the government's next move in the controversy.

'The Two Orphans,' With Lillian Gish, Is Coming to T. D. & L.

LILLIAN GISH
in D. W. GRIFFITH'S
"ORPHANS OF THE STORM"

To say that Lillian Gish is one of the very greatest actresses the motion picture screen has developed is about like saying that water is wet. She stands out like a flash of lightning on a dark night. In certain phases of her work, she ranks with the great tragediennes of all times.

And never, in all her varied screen career, has Miss Gish done greater work, or shown a higher type of artistry, than in the leading feminine role in D. W. Griffith's "Orphans of the Storm," a film version of the ever-popular stage play "The Two Orphans." "Orphans of the Storm" has been booked by the management of the T. D. & L. theatre next Monday and continuing through Thursday.

---with a great $2.00 CHICKEN DINNER served country-style

Picture a tender chicken, deliciously fried to a tempting brown and dripping with rich gravy—
—a steaming pyramid of corn on cob, each fat kernel about to burst with goodness;
—a pleasing variety of fresh-picked vegetables from nearby farms, prepared to perfection;
—a pot of excellent coffee, with a great pitcher of thick country cream—
These delights—AND MANY MORE—placed before you in generous country-like portions, with an invitation to "help yourself."
You will be reminded of the congenial country dinner of by-gone days, and you will find keen relish in the fresh farm food, the genial hospitality and the delightfully quaint surroundings.
There will be no dancing, no "entertainment" to detract from your enjoyment of the appetizing food. Montgomery's Country Inn is the place for which persons of refinement have been waiting—where you can take your family and friends for a rare treat.

ORDER TO SHOW CAUSE
In the Superior Court of the State of California, in and for the County of Los Angeles

In the matter of the application for change of name of Neale & Gregg Hardware Co., a Corporation:

Notice is hereby given, that the Neale & Gregg Hardware Co., a corporation organized and existing under and by virtue of the laws of the State of California, has presented to the Superior Court of the County of Los Angeles, State of California, and filed its petition praying to be allowed to change its corporate name from Neale & Gregg Hardware Co., to "D. L. Gregg Hardware Co.," and upon reading and filing said application, it is hereby ordered, adjudged and decreed, that all persons interested in said matter appear before the above entitled court in Department Ten thereof, in the County Court House in the City of Los Angeles, State of California on the 11th day of July, 1922, at the hour of 11:00 o'clock a. m., of said day, or as soon thereafter as counsel may be heard, to show, if any there be, why the application for change of name as prayed for in said petition should not be granted.

It is further ordered, adjudged and decreed, that a copy of the foregoing order to show cause shall be published once a week for four consecutive weeks in The Glendale Evening News, a newspaper printed and published within the County of Los Angeles, State of California.

It is ordered, adjudged and decreed, that any person having objections to the granting of said petition may at any time before the date set for the hearing thereof, file in said court and said cause his objection thereto.

Dated June 9, 1922.

BERT P. WOODARD EXPLAINS ABOUT SAMPLE BILL

Attorney Makes Statement In Regard to Action by Realty Board

Bert P. Woodard, attorney, Glendale resident and well known here and in Los Angeles, takes exception to statements said to have been made at the meeting of the Glendale Realty board last Wednesday relative to the so-called "lawyers' bill." Attorney Woodard said:

"The Glendale Realty Board, according to an article appearing in your issue of Thursday, has, by unanimous vote gone on record in opposition to the so-called Lawyers' bill.

"I assume that you have reported the proceedings of the meeting with your usual accuracy, and, if you have, the board was laboring under the mistaken impression that the bill will prevent any one, except a licensed lawyer, from drawing up any legal document and would prevent a realtor from drawing up deeds, leases and other documents to be placed of record. The bill carries no such inhibition, and such is not even the object of the bill. It does not interfere in the least with the legitimate activities of the realtor.

Known as Sample Bill

"The bill in question is a bill to prohibit the unlawful practice of law, and is known as the 'Sample bill.' It was passed by the last legislature after the strongest of opposition by the representatives of certain trust companies; the governor of the state after a careful and lengthy consideration approved it and it would have been a law today if these same trust companies had not been influential enough to invoke the referendum against the measure. It will be submitted to the referendum of the people in the November election.

"The foregoing legislative history alone is enough, it seems to me, to put the burden upon its opponents to criticize it upon its merits rather than to attempt to discredit it by reading into it provisions which it does not contain and by attempting to brand it as a measure fostered by lawyers alone.

Misinformed, He Says

"I cannot in this brief communication, discuss the entire bill and do not propose to do so, but simply desire to remind my friends on Glendale's Realty Board that they have been misinformed. The bill does not and cannot interfere with the business of a realtor; with the rights of business men to prepare agreements; of title companies to insure title, to act as escrow holders and prepare the papers incident to its business. As has been said by an eminent lawyer 'The only man who need fear this legislation is the man who undertakes to practice law as a business without submitting himself to the responsibility imposed on the licensed lawyer for the protection of the public.' The state of California has laws upon its statute books for the protection of the realtor and for the protection of the people with whom he deals, and one who acts as a real estate broker, without the license required by law, is guilty of a crime. The law would be useless without the penalty and would be disregarded with impunity. The same considerations apply, with even greater force to the practice of law, and the unlicensed lawyer, who cannot be punished, can do as much harm as the unlicensed real estate broker."

Man and Wife In Partnership at Law

KANSAS CITY, Mo.—Not satisfied with the strength of the bonds which link them in connubial partnership, Alfred E. Carroll and Lucy—his wife—are now contemplating strengthening their marital relation links by entering a virtual legal partnership.

And this is just one instance of the feminine invasion of the legal fraternity that is impending, if the personnel of the 1922 graduating class of the Kansas City School of Law is an indication.

The Carrolls are members of this class of the school. Although Mrs. Carroll does not plan to practice she hopes to be of tremendous assistance to her husband in his legal tasks.

In addition to Carroll & Carroll, there are several other unusual combinations in this year's class. Lyle M. and Sarah Lucile Turner, brother and sister, will receive their degrees of LL. B. at the same time. Legal tangles will receive both a masculine and a feminine review from this pair.

Loretta Cecilia and Mary Catherine McDonnell, sisters, also will receive their "sheepskins" this year. They as yet have not made plans for the establishment of a firm.

Two brothers—Charles Franklin Melching and Roy Arthur Melching—will complete their law school educations at the same time. Announcement of their probable partnership has been made.

Of the probable 110 graduates eight are women. This number is unusual, because numerous classes have no women enrolled.

About 70 per cent of the class have planned to practice law in Greater Kansas City.

Days of Old Must All Be Forgotten

CLARKSBURG, W. Va.—Not a tangible street reminder of the days of the saloons is to be permitted to remain in Clarksburg by order of the city council. It has served notice on Thomas S. Smith, proprietor of a soft drink establishment, that he must change the name of the place from "The Corner Bar," take down all signs bearing that name and remove the front swinging doors.

The Corner Bar is a survival of the ante-prohibition days, having formerly been a saloon. When prohibition came along Smith continued in business at the same old stand with the same bar fixtures, the only change made being in the nature of the beverages dispensed.

If you are asking, "What's the use?" it means that you are in danger of allowing your life to become useless. The world is largely a reflection of ourselves.

ANSWERS CONGRESS CRITICS

WASHINGTON, July 1. — Before the gavel announcing the recess of the house until August 15, Republican Leader Mondell delivered a speech defending the accomplishments of the senate and house against congressional critics. Congress collectively, Mondell said, is the "most alluring of all fields for criticism" by disappointed persons who entertained hopes to sit in the legislative body.

MRS. OBENCHAIN ILL

LOS ANGELES, July 1.—Suffering from a heavy cold, combined with severe nervous strain, Madalynne C. Obenchain, being re-tried on the charge of murdering J. Belton Kennedy, was confined to her bed in the county jail today.

Reports of Mrs. Obenchain's illness revealed the fact that the postponement of her trial for one week probably saved her from a physical and nervous collapse.

BONES, AGED AND ALL KINDS, PUT UPON DISPLAY

for them to eat in those days. These triangular-shaped teeth are from three-quarters of an inch to two inches in length. From their size zoologists have been able to ascertain that their owners were from baby sharks to full-grown adults fifty feet in length.

Has Lots of Teeth

Each shark has 200 teeth in four rows, according to Mr. Purple. He stated that, as each tooth becomes worn, a new one takes its place, so that there is no such thing as a toothless shark.

David Starr Jordon of Stanford university, who is declared the most noted living authority on water mammals, considers that the sharks who "sported" five of the teeth in an adjoining tray must have been about 120 feet long. They are the largest sharks teeth ever found. The largest shark caught now is not over thirty-five feet long. One hundred and twenty feet is some length for a shark. And this is no fish story, either!

Here's Some Chewer

The tooth of an Imperial elephant is the largest fossil in the display. This is an odd-shaped khaki-colored object which weighs six and three-quarters pounds and measures eight and a half inches across the chewing surface.

"The crushing power would be so enormous that it would take some cool calculation to figure it out," remarked Mr. Purple. He commented upon the fact that elephants' teeth work forward and up in the jaws until, when worn down, they are forced from the mouth by new teeth which take their places.

The exact size of the elephant, who chewed her cud with this tooth, is unknown, but it is believed that the largest Jumbo of today would be a pigmy in comparison.

The giant sloth was a large reptile with an underslung body who roamed the marshes during the pleistocene epoch. A souvenir of its existence is found in several vertebra which it carelessly left behind when it decided to decompose.

Suddenly Grows

A reconstructed sloth is now on exhibition in the Southwestern Museum of Natural History in Exposition park, Los Angeles. Recently the curator of the museum raised its height about two feet following discoveries of footprints in the compound of the jail at Carson City, Nevada. No, a jail-breaker was not foiled by desert Sherlocks. The footprints were left behind in warm molten granite about 150,000 years ago by sloths. From the distance separating these prints, it was possible to calculate the length of stride of the beast and from that its height. Zoologists found that they had not given "Mr." Sloth full credit for his "standing" in his community. His effigy, therefore, was elevated two points, or rather, two feet.

The human vertebra is about half an inch in diameter. The vertebra on display is about three and a half inches in diameter and an inch and a half thick. This is so large that no one yet has any conception as to the magnitude of the animal who possessed it.

"The crocodiles will get you if you don't watch out," isn't very often heard in Southern California. Yet these animated leather lizards once roamed the Pacific coast. To prove it, one of them left behind the first crocodile tooth ever found west of the Mediterranean.

Backbones On Display

Speaking about backbone in one tray, vertebra of land mammals are placed beside a vertebra of a fish. The marine vertebra is hollowed both at the sides and at the top, while the terra firma vertebra is smooth in both dimensions.

Sabre-tooth tigers, with overhanging tusks, also made their home nearby. A tooth of one of them is two and a half inches long as it stands now and is estimated to have been at least five inches before the tiger got through using it. He was supposed to have used it when pouncing upon elephants.

Hippopotami also wallowed in Southern California mire. A tusk is part of the fossil collection as is also a portion of the tusk bone of a mammoth. There is a lion's bone also and several bones from a prehistoric five-toed horse.

Interesting discoveries are being made every day in these lime deposits, according to Mr. Purple, who stated that tourists were flocking there every day. The company owns 30 acres and has examined 40,000 tons of soils. About 15,000,000 tons remain untouched yet.

These fossil bones are said to make unexcelled fertilizer and the company is busy pulverizing those which are of no scientific value. Its product is being handled locally from 601 East Broadway by the Glendale Hardware company.

FIGHT ENDS WITH FINE

BALTIMORE, July 1. — The fight between John Burness Symon, a member of the wrecking firm of Symon Brothers, of San Francisco, and George Broadhurst, playwright, on board the steamship Colombia just outside of Havana last month, was settled when Symon appeared before Judge John S. Rose, in the United States court here and paid a fine of $20 and costs.

MEETING WITH SUCCESS

LONDON, July 1.—The military campaign of the Irish provisional government to subdue the republicans and restore order throughout the Irish free state is meeting with success everywhere, according to advices from Dublin and Belfast today. Not only have the regulars defeated the republicans in Dublin, capturing their military leaders and about 125 privates, but more than 1000 rebel sympathizers have been put under arrest in County Donegal.

Promoting Fellowship
Lessons in Home Building
Safety First, Also Fourth
Improve the Boulevards

By Gil A. Cowan

WITH the endorsement of the Chamber of Commerce, an all-Glendale organization, back of the East Glendale Advancement association's projects, including the hotel at Broadway and Glendale avenue, and the electrification of the Salt Lake route branch, there has been a harmonious chord struck in civic affairs which should echo long in the progress of this city.

"Getting Together," a play produced during the war for the purpose of presenting the players in the great world drama in their proper light, is well remembered by the writer. And the same spirit that permeated that production was evidenced at last night's session of the Chamber of Commerce directors.

It made those present appreciate the possibilities of fellowship and more of it is to be seen in civic affairs hereafter, it is predicted. "Getting together" is a great idea, don't you think?

"Every garden means a home," says an advertisement. Yes, and every home usually means a garden. Otherwise, it is a flat or apartment house or hotel and not so much of a home.

Every Saturday The Glendale Evening News offers for your consideration plans for a home, or a lesson on home building that is well worth reading. Give it a glance today and if there is nothing more than the list of those who support this program that interests you, take note of the progressive business men and firms represented.

You will note that the Chamber of Commerce heads the list!

Many Glendale people are leaving this week-end for a holiday trip so it is safe to say right here that an ounce of precaution with fireworks on the Fourth of July is worth pounds of flesh and gold after something has happened that isn't nice to think about.

Firecrackers are prohibited in about every organized community, including the city and county of Los Angeles. Fireworks are banned from national forest reservations and the fire wardens will be vigilant against violations.

Another thing. Do not experiment with home-made noise makers of the explosive variety, do not use the "cannon crackers," do not set fire to motorcars, do not endanger filmy clothing. Don't do those things or you will be sorry, oh, so sorry.

Sorrow never assuages grief, but simply accentuates it.

California needs more boulevards. Los Angeles needs more streets for motor traffic. Glendale needs more thoroughfares.

Not only does this city need more, but it should widen and improve those which it already has. Verdugo Road is the only boulevard one can drive through Glendale without having their machine shimmy around like a sailor at his first dance ashore.

It's a fact, folks, that a car weakens itself more by shimmying on the pavement than by bumping over the rough country roads. And, inasmuch as the shimmy is rapidly passing, let it be taken from the boulevards and confined to the back streets.

Really wonderful to think how substantially the modern motor car is tied together. How long would the lights last in a house being moved 25 miles an hour over city streets?

If you have not had the pleasure of owning an automobile, see some good-natured dealer and have him demonstrate the merits of his machine. Most of them are eager to show you what they have, for, even if you do not buy, you can talk about their good points and that may help him sell to some other person.

Most of the dealers appeal through the columns of The Glendale Evening News each Saturday for your consideration of their claims. Grant them the privilege of a demonstration.

Dr. Collier Moves Into Rudy Building

Dr. F. M. Collier this morning announced a change of his office address from 125½ North Brand boulevard to 103-A North Brand, where he will occupy one of the suites of the Rudy building.

Dr. Collier is a specialist on defects of the eye, ear, nose and throat. He is the oldest practicing physician in this line in Glendale and has acquired an enviable reputation. Before locating in this city he practiced in Los Angeles for ten years.

He is now engaged in fitting up offices, but is receiving patients as usual.

TO RETELL MURDER STORY

LOS ANGELES, July 1.—The story will be retold of the murder of Jacob C. Denton, it became known today in Judge Monroe's court on November 14, when a suit to force payment of an insurance policy on his life for the sum of $15,000 comes to trial. The question of whether the slaying was an "accident" within the meaning of the law was said to be the chief legal point involved. Another suit, in which Dolly Winters Denton, daughter of the decedent's second wife, will seek to share in the $30,000 estate, was scheduled for trial before Judge Hewitt, October 27. Mrs. Louise Peete is serving a life sentence in San Quentin for the murder of Denton.

LAW ENFORCEMENT BIG NEED, SAYS REV. SHULER

and the average girl of 14 is complete boss of the household.

No Respect Is Shown

"I am 42 years old and I have a daddy," said "Fighting Bob," "and if I undertook to dispute his word he would go out and get a fence rail and try to knock me down with it.

"The average boy nowadays has no respect for the authority of his father. When he gets out into the world he has no more respect for the sheriff or the officer or the judge. But there is a more profound reason for the wave of anarchy which is rapidly sweeping toward us.

"I say here and now, emphatically and without thought of apology, that there is too much special protection of vice and crime. Take for instance last New Years' in my city. Some of the biggest hotels in the city were nothing more than blind pigs. In them I saw men so drunk that they could not sit in their chairs. And not a single arrest was made so far as I know or have heard any report of.

Reason for Anarchy

"When I go down on Los Angeles street in the city and hear some fellow cursing America and cursing the constitution and cursing the law and the courts and the police and the judge, and cursing God, it makes me mad all through. But when I see so many cases of protected vice, so much discrimination in the case of the man with money, I begin to understand why these men have taken to anarchy. So long as we dig into Chinatown and down the alleys and side streets and fine and jail the fellows rolling dice, and turn the fellow loose who can drive a limousine, we will breed anarchy in the hearts of our sons and daughters."

Hotels Violate Law

Rev. Shuler told of sworn testimony of investigators of the results of the red light abatement act. These investigators stated, he declared, that only seven cases of this kind had been prosecuted by the district attorney's office in two years. The same investigators said, according to Rev. Shuler, that out of sixty Los Angeles hotels investigated, fifty-five were violating the law.

"We thought that when the war ended there would be a tremendous rebound to high idealism," continued Rev. Shuler. "Instead, what do we find? Europe flat on its race, overrun with anarchy. There is not a single nation on the continent that can survive unless conditions return to some sort of normal state.

"America alone stands out with some kind of reasonable hope for a successful future. But anarchy is coming here swiftly. I can see the tidal wave sweeping over the country, engulfing old established institutions, brushing aside the laws, and I tell you that if our nation is to survive and be a great nation in the time of our grandchildren, it will survive only because we business men come to our feet, recognize the conditions which exist, and take the necessary and strenuous measures to overcome them.

For Law Enforcement

"I stand in Los Angeles county pleading for a honest 100 per cent enforcement of the law against all classes and conditions of vice and crime. And I tell you that that is the one and only way we will ever save the government for those children whose eyes have never yet seen the light of day," finished the "fighting preacher."

The address was interrupted many times by outbursts of applause, and at its conclusion Rev. Shuler was forced to respond several times before the applause subsided.

The meeting was adjourned with the singing of the "Battle Hymn of the Republic" by the members and guests.

OLD POLITICIAN PASSES

WASHINGTON, July 1. — The defeat of Senator Porter J. McCumber in the North Dakota Republican primaries Wednesday was described today as the "passing of a staunch uncompromising politician of the old school," by his colleague, Senator Ladd, a non-partisan leaguer.

Ladd declared Lynn J. Fraser, the successful candidate, would exert "strong influence in the senate as a member of the agricultural bloc." Ladd, in a prepared statement, did not discuss the causes of McCumber's defeat.

30 CENTS DUTY ON WHEAT

WASHINGTON, July 1.—The farm-tariff bloc triumphed again this afternoon when the duty of 30 cents a bushel on wheat in the McCumber tariff bill was adopted by a vote of 12 to 38.

The house fixed the duty at 25 cents. The senate rate is a slight reduction of the rate carried by the present emergency tariff measure.

SCRAPPING BILL PASSES

WASHINGTON, July 1.—Following its passage by the senate, the navy scrapping bill, giving the president authority to carry out the limitations provisions of the Washington conference, was agreed to by the house. The measure now goes to the White House for President Harding's signature.

EVACUATE QUARTERS

LONDON, July 1.—Irregulars have evacuated their quarters in East Donegal and have taken possession of an old English fort at Lough Swilly, according to a dispatch to the Central News today.

FORMER MINISTER FREED

LOS ANGELES, July 1.—Donald D. Stewart, former minister and social reformer of California, who was arrested in Sierra Madre recently on charges of bigamy and embezzlement revealing him as the alleged principal in a remarkable "love trail" through eastern cities, was released from custody today on a writ of habeas corpus.

Stewart, who was arrested by operatives of a private detective agency on allegations that he was wanted in Boston, Mass., was held for about 10 days in the city jail.

DENIES DIVORCE REHEARING

CARSON CITY, Nev., July 1.—The rehearing sought by Attorney General Leonard B. Fowler in his effort to reopen the fight to annul the divorce of Mary Pickford, famous motion picture star, from Owen Moore, was unanimously denied by the state supreme court. The court recently decided that Fowler could not intervene to set the divorce aside. This will bring to a close the long drawn-out fight in complete victory for the now Mrs. Douglas Fairbanks.
